Paris Seething In Revolt As Allied Forces Near City

Units of Lt. Gen. Patton's Third Army Fight German Elements in Vicinity of Versailles, Ten Miles From Capital

OVER 7,500 TRAPPED ENEMIES ARE CAPTURED

BULLETIN
Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 21.—(P)—American tanks had thrust into sectors on opposite sides of Paris today and Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery told Allied troops the enemy in northwest France had suffered a defeat, definite, complete and decisive, with the end of the war "in sight."

The Americans had established a firm bridgehead across the Seine at Mantes, 25 miles northwest of the capital, where they threatened a sweep toward the rocket coast. But they were meeting heavy resistance in that direction.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press War Editor

Defiant patriots were reported today to have hoisted Allied flags in Paris as Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's armor threatened a wide outflanking movement of the historic capital, and revolt seethed within the enslaved city.

In the south of France, meanwhile, more landings may be in the making. Three Allied light cruisers shelled the almost non-existent German defenses at Bayonne in the southwest Atlantic coast corner of France, and the Berlin radio reported the shelling and aerial bombing of the southern coast area between Marseille and Toulon, which it said might indicate new landings.

Patton's left wing today threw a bridgehead across the Seine, 25 miles northwest of Paris, smashing open a path to the flying bomb coast 90 miles more to the north. His right wing raced to the Seine southeast of Paris on a broad front, threatening a wide encirclement which could sweep behind the enslaved capital to the historic World War I battlefields of the Marne, Soissons and Reims.

Third army armored units officially were reported operating in the vicinity of Versailles, ten miles from the heart of Paris and scene of the signing of the World War I peace treaty.

Berlin said Allied reconnaissance forces already were operating in the Paris suburbs. The city itself seethed with revolt. German machine guns were turned on students and patriots who rose up against the occupation forces, and as huge fires were reported blazing throughout the city, a front dispatch said Patton was urged to come to their aid as quickly as possible.

But capture of Paris apparently was incidental to the Allied command's major objective—destruction of the German Seventh Army and of reinforcements drawn from the 15th which has been guarding the robot bomb coast.

Elements of 14 Nazi divisions, remnants of the broken Seventh Army now were in a death struggle in the Falaise pocket in Normandy, narrowed to an area of 60 square miles. The Germans attempted desperately to break out of the trap but were smashed to-day back by combined efforts of Canadian troops and rocket-firing Typhoons, after a violent night battle with casualties heavy on both sides.

Field Marshal Gen. Guenther Von Kluge's forces were being edged back against the Seine on the Allied left flank. British troops swept into Caubourg and town, which lies about 25 miles from the Seine's mouth, and farther inland British and Canadian thrust within three miles of the communications hub of Lisieux.

In the south of France the great naval base of Toulon virtually was encircled by hard-driving French troops. American infantry was within 15 air miles of Marseilles, and other Americans sped toward Aix-en-Provence, key road junction whose capture would cut one of the last major retreat routes for the Germans at Toulon.

French-Swiss border reports said that the last German forces at Hendaye, just across the border in France, had pulled out and only regular French customs men guarded the frontier.

(The Brazzaville radio said in a broadcast reported yesterday by NBC that Maquis forces were in control of Vichy. The broadcast added that Gestapo agents had moved from Vichy and Paris to Nancy.)

SOVIET FORCES BATTER THREE GERMAN UNITS

In Warsaw Sector Russians Drive Closer to Praga, Suburb to East of Warsaw

REVERSES IN LATVIA

By EDDIE GILMORE
Moscow, Aug. 21.—(P)—Soviet forces have smashed three Nazi divisions in the Sandomierz salient below Warsaw, while other Red army units have yielded slightly before costly German attempts to rescue possibly 200,000 troops isolated on the Baltic front, a Russian communique announced today.

In the Warsaw sector, meanwhile, Russian troops have driven closer to Praga, suburb to the east of the city, and have captured some vital positions on the north-east, front of the city.

Marshall J. B. St. Ives's first Ukraine army, pushing up the west bank of the Vistula, liquidated the trapped Germans north of Sandomierz.

The victory freed Konev's forces for a possible drive either south-west on the rail fortress of Krakow, north toward Warsaw, or directly west across the Polish plains toward German Silesia, which would stop the Polish capital's communications.

The slight Red army reverses occurred in the Jelgava sector near the Gulf of Riga, where 144 German tanks and self-propelled guns were reported knocked out.

In Estonia, Gen. Ivan Sassenikov's Third Baltic army, capturing more than 150 populated places, drove to within seven miles of Tartu on the Tallinn-Riga railway.

Below the Estonia sector in Latvia, Gen. Andrei Yeremenko's second Baltic army, sweeping up more than 70 places, advanced to within 55 miles east of Riga with the capture of Erglin on the Madona-Riga railway.

Maslennikov and Yeremenko were hammering back the snarled Nazis in the Baltics, cut off by Gen. Ivan C. Bagramian's first Baltic army drive that reached the Baltic sea 25 miles west of Riga several weeks ago.

Ever since this wedge was established beyond Riga the Nazis have been hurling counterattacks in an attempt to break through to their trapped divisions.

Officials Plan Fight To Halt Polio Epidemic

Washington, Aug. 21.—(P)—The Public Health Service said today the poliomyelitis epidemic grew worse in the first two weeks of August. Cases reported in the week ended Aug. 5 numbered 922.

In the following week there were 1,015 cases. This brought the nation-wide total since the start of the outbreak to nearly 4,250 cases.

Harrisburg, Aug. 21.—(P)—County medical directors throughout Pennsylvania were swinging into action in independent fights against infantile paralysis as unofficial reports from over the state indicated that nearly 500 persons had already been stricken in the present outbreak.

At Gettysburg, Dr. C. G. Crist called a meeting of all doctors in Adams county and announced the barring of all children under 15 from churches, Sunday schools, and public gatherings as the county's second case was discovered at Littlestown.

Opening of public schools were set back until Sept. 18 at Sayre, in Bradford county, declared Board Secretary Samuel J. Kresge, because of the prevalence of the disease in adjoining Tioga, with a scattering of cases in Bradford.

Dr. A. H. Stewart, state secretary of health, listed Tioga and Allegheny counties as the two most widely infected spots, with 77 cases in the former and 94 officially listed in the Pittsburgh area although health authorities there have acknowledged 113 cases.

In Philadelphia, Dr. Rufus S. Reeves, director of public health said that ten new cases were reported over the week-end but that they had not been certified by the bureau of public health.

Champ Blood Donor Ends Boot Training

New York, Aug. 21.—(P)—The champion blood donor of Suffolk county, Samuel Wechsler, 36, donated his 19th pint of blood to the Manhattan Red Cross.

"Might need it myself now, any day," said Private Wechsler, who leaves today for New River, S. C. and combat assignment after finishing his boot training with the marine corps.

Refineries In Slovakia And Poland Fired

Rome, Aug. 21.—(P)—About 500 American bombers set fire to two oil refineries in Poland and one in Czechoslovakia yesterday and for the first time encountered only a few enemy fighters over those heretofore fiercely defended regions.

The Fortresses bombed the big I. G. Farbenindustrie Synthetic oil and rubber factory at Oswiec in Poland, about 30 miles west of Krakow starting three great fires. The plant has a capacity of 62,500 tons of oil, annually.

The Liberators caused fires and explosions in a Vacuum Oil Refinery at Czechowice, Poland, 5 miles west of Krakow, and a State Oil Refinery at Dubova Czechoslovakia, 70 miles southwest of Krakow.

The only aerial opposition against the big bombers came near Budapest, when less than 20 Me-109's and FW190's jumped the fortresses en route to Poland. Escorting Mustangs quickly drove them off.

Railyards at Szolnok, Hungary, and Rakoczifalva airfield, four miles southeast of Szolnok, also were bombed by the Liberators.

Last night RAF Halifaxes, Liberators and Wellingtons attacked a tank factory at St. Valentin, 12 miles northeast of Steyr in Austria.

Kimmel Criticizes Article by Truman

Washington, Aug. 21.—(P)—Rep. Church (R-Ill.) told the house today that the full story of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, Dec. 7, 1941 "will shock the world" and added: "Washington was to blame."

Washington, Aug. 21.—(P)—Rear Admiral Husband E. Kimmel told Senator Truman (D-Mo.) today that the Roberts report "does not contain the basic truths of the Pearl Harbor catastrophe" and added that a magazine article by Truman dealing with the Hawaiian disaster contained "false statements."

Protesting that the article was based on the report prepared by Associate Justice Owen J. Roberts of the supreme court, the former naval commander at Pearl Harbor asked in a letter to Truman that "you refrain from repeating charges based on evidence that has never met with the test of public scrutiny."

Kimmel and Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short, army commander in Hawaii at the time of the Japanese attack, both await court martial on charges of dereliction of duty.

Bayonne Defenses Undergo Shelling

By CHARLES FOLTZ
Irun, Spain, Aug. 21.—(P)—Three light Allied cruisers began shelling almost non-existent German defenses in the Bayonne area of southern France before dawn today.

Spanish residents of this border town 18 miles to the south had a grandstand seat. The cruisers which first patrolled the coast south of Bordeaux evidently were feeling out German defenses, but drew only an occasional reply from two or three coastal batteries near Bayonne.

South of Bayonne Hitler's Atlantic wall no longer exists, for the Germans pulled out last night, leaving their defense works in ruins.

The three Allied warships were plainly visible from the Spanish coast when the fog veiling their approach had lifted.

FLAMES OF DESTRUCTION FOLLOW RAIDS

Nips Suffer Double Strike As MacArthur's Airmen Finish Off Defenses Guarding Philippines

CHINESE LUNGE AHEAD

BULLETIN

Washington, Aug. 21.—(P)—B-29 bombers in the second wave of Sunday's double-strike at Japan reported today sighting the flames of destruction wrought by the daylight flight of superfortresses while still a half-hour flight from industrial targets on Kyushu.

Four of the huge bombers reported to enemy action in the coordinated day and night attacks by the 20th Air Force. The announced losses all were sustained by the day raiders which met strong fighter opposition.

By J. B. KRUEGER
Associated Press War Editor
Superfortresses jolted the home islands of Japan with a double punch Sunday. A Liberator sank a 14,200-ton Japanese cruiser and Gen. MacArthur's persistent airmen finished off enemy aerial defenses guarding the southern Philippines.

In the first daylight operation against Japan proper since the 1942 Doolittle raid, the Superforts of the 20th Air Force got "good" results in a strike at the industrial area of Yawata on Kyushu. Apparently it was the heaviest raid yet against Japan. Tokyo said 80 planes were involved. The army said four B-29s were lost. Enemy fighters strongly resisted and anti-aircraft fire was moderate to intense.

A quick follow-up raid sent a smaller force of B-29s over the same northern Japan area Sunday night. The two raids cost the Japanese 12 planes destroyed, 12 probably destroyed and ten damaged. Tokyo admitted some damage.

The heavy cruiser went down Saturday, Gen. Joseph Stilwell's headquarters reported, under three direct hits and one probable.

Furious Chinese lunged at the Japanese trying to reinforce the Japanese offensive. Though Hengyang was lost, the Chinese resistance denied Japan the fruit of its capture—control of the Hankow-Canton railway.

Chinese in Yunnan province kept digging at Japanese held up in Tengchung and captured a hill position clearing the way for an assault on Lungling, another southwestern China base vital to Allied hopes of reopening the Burma road.

Correspondent Is Killed In France

New York, Aug. 21.—(P)—Tom Treanor, war correspondent for the Los Angeles Times and the National Broadcasting Co., has been killed on the road to Paris.

Advices to supreme headquarters in London said it was reported one other American correspondent had been killed and three wounded.

Treanor's death was announced from France by John MacVane, another NBC reporter there, who said:

"The jeep in which Treanor was riding was run over by an American tank."

Treanor recently published a book of his experiences as a war correspondent, called "One Damn Thing After Another."

CHILD ELECTROCUTED

Pittsburgh, Aug. 21.—(P)—One-year-old Francis Dillmore was electrocuted while crawling over a floor register at his home here Saturday.

The coroner said a short circuit in a living room lamp apparently transferred the fatal shock through his body to the register.

Message Brings Sorrow To Pleasant Township Family

Mr. and Mrs. James Rhoades, of Warren RD 3 this morning received a telegram from Adj. General J. A. Ulio which carried the sad news that their son, Dewey, who had previously been reported as missing had been killed in France on July 27. It was stated that a letter with more details of the young man's death would be received at a later date.

Dewey Rhoades was well and favorably known to a large circle of friends in this city. He attended the Pleasant township schools and at the time he entered the service was employed at the plant of Barnhart and Davis. He entered the army a year ago last May and received his training at Camp Meade. Sent to England he was only there about two weeks until being placed among the invasion troops went to France to rout the Hun.

His parents and three brothers, two of whom are in the United States service survive.

Parley For Enduring Peace Opens at Dumbarton Oaks

Washington, Aug. 21.—(P)—Representatives of the United States, Great Britain and Russia today began planning a world security organization which all agreed must be based on the "sovereign equality" of large and small nations alike, and must be backed by military forces available promptly and in strength.

Secretary of State Hull opened the initial session of the historic conference at Dumbarton Oaks on the dot of 10:30 a. m., with a sharp rap of the gavel on the horseshoe shaped oak table and said:

"The conference will come to order."

In his opening address Hull called for strong commitments to use force when necessary, saying it "must be available promptly, in adequate measure, and with certainty."

Ambassador Andrei A. Gromyko, chief Russian delegate, responding to Hull, likewise emphasized the need for force capable of preventing a recurrence of World War.

Sir Alexander Cadogan, the British delegation's leader, like Hull and Gromyko emphasized the need for force and for fair treatment of small nations, but he declared additionally that "peace may come sooner than some expect" and that therefore the conference should move swiftly toward setting up some framework of future international cooperation.

Expressly speaking for President Roosevelt as well as himself, Hull as official host opened the first session—the first international meeting to block out a security organization since formal work started on the ill-fated League of Nations 25 years ago. Cadogan (Turn to Page Two)

NEW PLAN TO CHECK BLACK MARKET GAS

Washington, Aug. 21.—(P)—A new program aimed at detecting black market gasoline sales will be put into effect on an experimental basis in Philadelphia next month and be extended to the rest of the country if it works, the Office of Price Administration announced today.

The plan requires that all gasoline distributors serving Philadelphia retail outlets report monthly the volume of sales at each outlet, compared with sales for the same month in 1942.

The reports will show whether any service stations have noticeably increased their gasoline business since the start of rationing.

Forrestal Lauds Eisenhower Tact

By HOWARD COWAN
Associated Press Correspondent representing the combined American Press

Gen. Eisenhower's Headquarters, Aug. 21.—(P)—Secretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal came away from a conference with Gen. Eisenhower today "tremendously impressed" with the spirit of cooperation which he said the supreme commander has fostered among the British and Americans in their Allies.

"What he has done in the way of resolution between us and the British—and all our allies—is a great example for the rest of the world," Forrestal told a brief news conference.

The secretary came here after watching landings in southern France. He left this morning to visit Cherbourg.

The navy secretary said the pressure is on in the Pacific and that the trend in that theater was comparable to that in Europe.

"Speaking in terms of acceleration of our own planning," he said, "we are ahead of schedule."

TOULON BEING ISOLATED BY FRENCH ARMY

American Infantry, Within 15 Airlines of Marseilles, Fans Out and Heads For Rhone Valley

ENEMY DISORGANIZED

BULLETIN
Rome, Aug. 21.—(P)—American forces have captured Valensole, 50 airline miles north of Toulon. The U. S. Seventh army has entered Toulon. Forward elements are nine miles from Marseilles. On the coast east of Toulon the French captured the enemy stronghold of Redon and Hotel De Golf, a mile from Hyeres.

By NORLAND NORGAAARD
Rome, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Hard driving French troops virtually encircled Toulon, breaking through to within three miles of the naval base while American infantry, within 15 airline miles of the naval base while American infantry, within 15 airline miles of Marseilles, fanned out today through the Durance valley and headed for the Rhone against disorganized enemy resistance.

The Americans sped forward on both sides of the town of Pertuis, 11 miles north of Aix-en-Provence across the Durance river, and joined French patriots who had surrounded Nazi troops within the town.

Another of Major Gen. Alexander M. Patch's American columns charged on several miles to the northeast of Aix, key junction of seven highways 15 miles north of Marseilles. Another unit was last reported in the outskirts of Aix and today possibly had completed occupation of that town.

A dispatch from Joseph Dugan, Associated Press correspondent with French troops driving on Toulon, said French commandos, joined with Patriot forces and former members of the French navy, were dominating the Faron area just north of Toulon.

The Nazi garrison in Hyeres, about 8 1/2 miles east of Toulon, was virtually isolated. Dugan said the Germans have given no indication of strength or determination to make a real stand in or near the mouth of the Rhone valley, the natural invasion highway for a juncture with Gen. Eisenhower in northern France.

Disorganization among the Germans indicated the Nazi command might be resigned to eventual defeat. (Turn to Page Seven)

RECORD LAUNCHINGS

Philadelphia, Aug. 21.—(P)—Naval launching history was made at the Philadelphia navy yards yesterday when the Antietam, 27,000 ton aircraft carrier, and the Los Angeles and the Chicago, 13,000 ton cruisers, slid down the ways. Ralph A. Bard, undersecretary of the navy, said it was "the largest launching at one time and one place in all naval history."

Rocket Guns Used Against Robots

London, Aug. 21.—(P)—Britons, counting dozens of dead and injured after a sharp weekend flying bomb attack, found cheer today in news that rocket guns were being used successfully against the robots.

British hope of relief from flying bombs was heightened by prospects that swift Allied advances in Western France soon might drive the Nazis from some of their launching sites.

Both British coastal and aerial observers expressed belief some launching platforms already had been forced to move further north. The rocket guns, such as defended London last spring, were reported considerably successful in knocking down flying bombs short of their targets. But nevertheless, sporadic robot attacks took a toll of lives and property in London and the southern counties yesterday and assaults were resumed again today.

Patton Accounts For 109,575 Nazis In Dash

With the U. S. Third Army in France, Aug. 21.—(P)—Lt. Gen. Patton's U. S. Third Army has inflicted 109,575 casualties on the Germans since Aug. 1 in his dash across Brittany and northern France to the outskirts of Paris.

Reports relayed here through at Bou, Spain, said the Maquis controlled the entire Pirenees region of southwestern France from the Atlantic to the Mediterranean. German forces just north of Spanish border have withdrawn northward and French patriots have appointed new civil administrators.

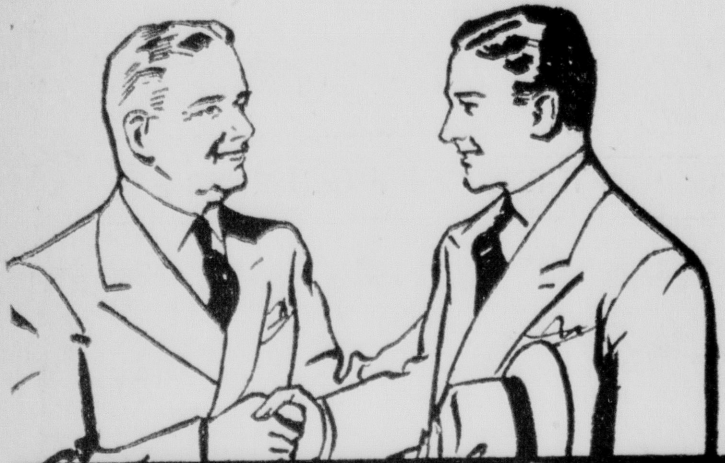

A dispatch from Irun, Spain, said the last German forces at Hendaye, just across the border in France, had pulled out and only regular French customs men guarded the frontier.

Registrants In 4-F Being Classified

Harrisburg, Aug. 21.—(P)—Draft boards in Pennsylvania have started reviewing registrants under 26 classified 4-F in order to qualify young men for military duty, deputy director of selective service.

"We are trying to reduce the 4-F pool and get these registrants in military service or in other classifications wherever possible," said Col. Smith.

The deputy director explained lower standards now apply mainly to eyes and ears and it is from this group of registrants that authorities hope to obtain additional servicemen.

Also facing a review of their 4-F status, he added are those registrants disqualified for service because of failure to meet minimum intelligence standards.

"We have not lowered our intelligence standards but more accurate tests are now being used," the deputy director explained, adding "these cases should be carefully distinguished from those of registrants rejected for neurological and psychiatric disorders."

TWO ARE WOUNDED

Confirmation is given today in an official War Department release to the Associated Press that two more local men have been wounded in action in the European area. They are 2nd Lt. Eryne A. Conroe, 53 Grant street, Tidouste, and Cpl. Clifford W. Barhight, 15 Park street.

Cpl. Gerry Peterson, aerial gunner in the air corps at Fort Myers, Fla., is home to spend a furlough with his family and friends.

Ambassador Andre Gromyko, Soviet representative, spoke in response to Hull, who then turned over the leading American role to under-secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius, Jr.

Both Hull and Cadogan sought to reassure small nations as to their position in the projected world agency. It was on this point that Governor Thomas E. Dewey, Republican presidential nominee, last week warned against big-power coercion. Dewey later designated John Foster Dulles, his advisor in international affairs, to come here for conferences with Hull on the dumbarton talks. Dulles will arrive Wednesday.

Forge Plans Campaign For Many Men

Manager Levine of the Manpower Commission reported this morning that this week a campaign will be started by the National Forge and Ordnance Company of Irvine for a number of men employees. The loss of many men due to the draft has caused the National Forge and Ordnance Company to have places for a large number of men at their plant.

Arrangements were being made today for the handling of the campaign by the Employment Service of the Commission and it is expected that the first of a series of advertisements will appear this week. The National Forge has many attractive features for the men employed there such as insurance, hospitalization, etc.

River Resorts Attract Crowd Over Week

The past fortnight has seen more campers and cottagers in this county than ever before in its history. The gas shortage has caused hundreds from Western Pennsylvania to forego long vacation trips and the river and creek have come into their own. The fact that a breeze always blows off the streams makes them ideal vacation spots and every cottage and camp in this section has been occupied for weeks past.

The dire need is for more cottages and cabins along the streams and in the woodlands and there has been some discussion among sportsmen in the city as to the possibility of forming a company to erect a score or more of up to date camps.

With the cleansing of the river from sewage from the towns on its banks and on its tributaries, the fishing will be greatly bettered and with the stocking program that has been under way for some years gone by the Allegheny will come into its own. Ross Bailey, fish warden of this district reports some nice catches have been made despite the low water at this time.

Crashes Send 2 to Hospital Over Week

State Police officers from the local barracks were called out over the weekend to investigate two automobile crashes which sent two patients to Warren General Hospital, one with deep lacerations and a fracture of her left leg.

This accident occurred about 4:30 a. m. Sunday on Route 6, Conewango township, when Mr. and Mrs. Earl Felder, 1916 Pennsylvania avenue, east, struck a culvert and completely demolished their car. It is believed that the Felders, who were returning from a trip to Cleveland, O., both fell asleep momentarily and the car crashed. Mr. Felder was uninjured.

The second crash occurred about 10:30 Saturday night near Kane, when a car driven by Harry H. Walters, of Meadville, RD 5, left the highway and rolled completely over. His small daughter, Helen Virginia, aged seven years, was brought to Warren General Hospital for treatment of a laceration on her chin and x-rays to determine if there were further injuries. She was discharged from the hospital on Sunday. The State Police are continuing their investigation of this accident.

HAD REAL FAMINE
There was a real cigarette famine in Warren over the week end. Stores and machines were out of the most popular brands and a lot of folks got an introduction to brands they had never heard of before. This morning the machines were replenished and some of the dealers got in a new supply.

TWO GRASS FIRES
Firemen over the week end answered two alarms caused by grass fires and there was no loss suffered in either fire. The first call was on Saturday at 12:35 to Spring street and the second came yesterday when the firemen were called to 812 West Fifth street. The grass about town is dry and care should be exercised in starting bonfires and in burning rubbish.

PICNIC A SUCCESS
The annual picnic of the Marconi Club held Sunday at the clubhouse proved a success in every way. There were 415 in attendance and all thoroughly enjoyed the splendid chicken dinner. The chickens were barbecued and were excellent with all of the other's seasonable trimmings served. A baseball game between the Marconi Club and the Sylvania team resulted in a victory for the Sylvania and Joe Bevevino is reported as the lone casualty of the game as he may have sustained a broken thumb in stopping a fast one. Other games and sports passed the time rapidly and a general good time was enjoyed.

Unlawfully possessing liquor having the official retail seal of the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board.

Possessing liquor not legally acquired prior to Jan. 1, 1934.

Possessing sacrificial liquor illegally.

Selling liquor to persons visibly intoxicated, minors, habitual drunkards or persons of known intemperate habits. (Three persons named.)

Selling liquor on credit. (One person named.)

Permitting dancing without a license.

Permitting minors unaccompanied by parent or guardian to frequent a licensed place.

Possessing liquors other than wine not permitted under his license.

The informations were drawn and signed by J. L. Andrews, one of the five State Control Board agents that participated in Friday night's raid and the warrants were served by Constable W. E. Mowl. Mr. Andrews was the only person present representing the prosecution. E. J. McDonald appeared as counsel for Mr. Dell.

It is understood that all of these charges are based on data obtained before the raid Friday night. Mr. Andrews said the hotel had been under investigation for several months, but gave no particulars.

The dancing license referred to in one of the charges costs $100.

Other alleged violations were mentioned by raiding officers Friday night, but if anything is done concerning them it will have to be initiated by the District Attorney. There is no inkling what Mr. Rice will do, if anything.

Hubbard Buys Garage Bldg. On East Side

Announcement was made today that C. A. Hubbard has purchased the building at 710-712 Pennsylvania avenue east, which for the past year has housed the Hubbard Motor Sales Co., and the Penn Bowling Center.

Mr. Hubbard bought the building from Harry Bittenbender who acquired it at the time the alleys were installed on the second floor.

In town today to complete the sale transaction Mr. Bittenbender stated that he has secured a long term lease on the second floor and is planning to open the alleys for the fall and winter season on Saturday, September 9th.

Mr. Hubbard states that the entire first floor and basement will be used for his garage, sales and service business. He has for many years held the local agency for Chrysler and Plymouths, and plans to continue these lines, along with his repair service.

'Frisco Swimmer Is Greatest Ever

By F. W. CRAWFORD
Kansas City, Aug. 21.—(P)—Charley Sava, Ann Curtis' swimming coach, says his blond San Francisco pupil is only beginning to show what she can do.

The star of the Crystal Plunge Club finished her unprecedented grand slam yesterday by winning the 800 meters, her fourth free style title in the three-day national A. A. championships.

Sava put it this way: "Ann is the greatest woman swimmer who ever lived. She is the only girl who has won all the free style championships at the national, and she will do much better. Ann can beat most of the records now in the books by several seconds. The water was too warm here for record breaking."

RACE BETTING HIGH

Westbury, N. Y., Aug. 21.—(P)—Harness racing is cataloged as a rural sport but 34,037 Gothamites witnessed the five programs at Roosevelt raceways last week and bet $1,200,268. Even larger totals are expected when the grand circuit moves in a week from today.

127 OVERSEAS YPORTS

More than four million troops and 63 million ship-ton of supplies were transferred from the U. S. to 127 overseas ports in the 31-months period from December 1941 through June 1944.

CASE GRADUATE

William Thomas Granquist, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Granquist, of Akeley, RD 1, received his bachelor of science degree in chemical engineering at the 61st commencement exercises of the Case School of Applied Science in Cleveland on Sunday. He has recently completed his thesis on "Chloralurea as a Bactericide".

The Case graduating class this year consisted of 126 seniors, of whom 63 were attached to the Navy V-12 units at the school. The navy graduates will all attend Annapolis for midshipmen's training starting August 30. Young Granquist has accepted a position at Case.

250 AMATEURS PLAY IN ALL-AMERICAN

By L. E. SKELEY

Chicago, Aug. 21.—(P)—Golf's dullest merry-go-round of 1944—the rich $42,500 All American tournament—made its first whirl at Tam O'Shanter Country Club today.

Some 250 amateurs, only part of the field gunning for 21 of the 24 positions in the simon pure section, were listed for action in the qualifying round as the score keepers, fortified with a liberal supply of sedatives, arrived early with batches of sharp pencils.

BASEBALL TRY-OUT CAMP

For the first time in the history of the great national past time aspiring young ball players in Warren and vicinity will have an opportunity to attend a baseball try-out camp to be conducted by the famous St. Louis Cardinals, now on the way to their third successive National League pennant.

The camp will be held on Friday and Saturday of this week at the Warren State Hospital diamond, tryouts to start at eleven o'clock the first day and ten o'clock Saturday.

There is no charge of any kind to take part in these tryouts, the only requirement being that boys bring their own baseball shoes, gloves and uniforms. Those not living in Warren must pay their own transportation to and from here and their living expenses while attending the camp. Boys signed to contracts by the Cardinals will have their expenses refunded to them.

All boys 16 years of age or over are urged to take advantage of this opportunity to display their diamond talents before Roy Dissinger and Charles "Pop" Kelchner, who will be dispatched to Warren by the Cardinals' home office to supervise the try-outs.

This is a rare opportunity for young players anxious to perform before big league tutors, as well as fans who enjoy watching the youngsters in action.

THE WEEKEND IN FRANCE

The German disaster in western Europe has intensified over the weekend, both in the Paris theatre and in southern France.

One of the most notable developments is the establishment of a bridgehead across the Seine at Nantes, 25 miles northwest of the capital, by one of Patton's armored columns. This was achieved while other American units continued their sweep around the south of Paris, thus threatening to flank the nerve center of Europe.

The cutting of the Seine at Nantes is of vast importance strategically. It means that the remnants of Nazi Field Marshal Von Kluge's battered 7th army, which have been retreating toward the Seine from the Normandy defeat, are now in a huge bowl-shaped trap whose lid is the river and a short stretch of coast southwest of the Seine's mouth.

The drive into southern France is going supremely well. The great naval base of Toulon is virtually surrounded by French troops, while American infantry is heading into the valley of the Rhone with the port of Marseille only about fifteen miles away on its left.

ANOTHER REASON

Police must prepare for "the bloodiest and most costly crime wave in history" after the war, Edward J. Hickey, Connecticut state police commissioner, warns, with the "ever-growing number of juvenile delinquents graduating into the criminals of tomorrow."

That is a warning which our postwar planners—federal, state, local and private—should read and heed. For it's still true that "Satan has work for idle hands to do." And it's also true that the fullest possible employment will be of more help than all the policemen in the world.

WRAP THEM WELL

It's not going to be a very merry Christmas for anyone concerned if the gifts which you're now so lovingly selecting for your service men overseas arrive smashed—or not at all. And that's what's likely to happen, according to the postmaster general, if they aren't wrapped strongly.

Package mail takes an awful banging between your house and its overseas destination. So keep the package of shoebox size, but make the box of wood, metal, or fiberboard, securely wrapped. And no shoeboxes!

Hitler's defeat in northwestern France has reached a magnitude that has dragged the harried corporal face to face with the urgent problem of "where do I go next?"—a tough question for the dictator who again is shouting that "Germany will never surrender."

A Hint to the Postwar Planners

THE LAST DAYS OF NAZI PARIS

By TRUDI MCCULLOUGH
A Features Writer

This is the Paris that awaits the Allied armies: A hungry city, grown hungrier since the invasion armies landed. Supplies from Britain and Normandy, the nation's larders, have ceased to flow into the capital.

A city where almost any food can be had on the black market, but housewives up from 5 a. m. to dusk for their rutabaga and 125 grams of bread.

Only Nazis and collaborationists can afford the black market, where a leg of lamb costs 1500-2000 francs, a pound of butter 1250 francs.

Meat Is Scarce For Patriots
For the patriot there is almost no meat. Milk is only to be had in hospitals, and eggs not at all. Early in the occupation, some provident citizens kept a hen in their apartments to insure eggs. But there was no grain "and they were obliged to eat the hen."

These facts coming from Andre Labarthe, publisher of the French patriot magazine, Tricolor, are supplemented by an article in the current issue. From it a picture of Paris in the waning days of its occupation can be drawn.

At the cafes which remain open and busy, the French who have money to spend—sit at one table, the Germans at another, ignoring each other. There is no coffee after 3 p. m., no chocolate before 3 p. m. Curfew rings sometimes at 9 a. m., sometimes at midnight. Those who miss the last subway must stay at the nightspots until dawn.

At Maxim's, which has become a social headquarters for high ranking officers, prices are eight times what they were in 1940. Horcher, the famous Berlin caterer, who at the Paris World's Fair in 1937 was chef at the German building, is major domo at Maxim's.

Prices here dictate a Nazi clientele, but other cafes have been set aside for the Germans with orchestras playing German music. Mendelssohn is forbidden.

Nazis in Cities At Night
Large movie theaters like the Marignan, Le Paris, and Lutetia, also are reserved for the Germans. Other movie houses are heavily patronized by Partisans. They have proved to be a popular meeting place for the Underground. If Nazis attend they do so in civilian clothes. Nearly all "Germans" dress in civilian clothes at night," reports Tricolor, "it has been found safe."

American cigarettes sell for 400 francs a package. At night clubs cigarette girls manage to get 600 for them. The theaters are running to capacity with French plays. Sacha Guitry, now divorcing his fourth wife, is producing new plays as continuously as ever. The Germans have brought theatrical companies from Berlin for gala performances. When they recently performed a Moliere masterpiece, a French patriot veiled the bust of Moliere in the gallery.

The Germans have tried to hold fashionable race meetings, but since the successful bombing of the anti-aircraft batteries at the famed Longchamp track, the Autteuil race course is the only one in use.

Thus are the Germans spending their time as the sands of their occupation run out.

The people of France continue to walk long distances between subway stops as service has been curtailed for a long time. Because of the scarcity of newsprint they have few papers to read on their journeys. Billboard propaganda has diminished for the same reason.

"In the streets," according to an Associated Press report from Switzerland, "starving dogs and cats snarl and growl over scanty garbage."

The Paris, upon which Allied troops are advancing, is not the Paris of Hillegard's song or Eliot Paul's book. It is a grim determined place.

SPRINGTIME—Flowers still appeal to Parisians and at the Place de L'Opera the traditional sale of Lilies of the Valley goes on.

ART—Venus de Milo attracted throngs to the Louvre, despite war's grim pall. Paris is still one of the world's great art centers.

FASHION—Dress designers, fashion writers sit with pencils poised as a mannikin removes jacket to display a dinner dress.

APERTIF—Here's a sidewalk cafe, filled with anxious patriots, collaborationists and Nazis sipping coffee as time runs out.

ALCOHOL IN RUBBER

Alcohol consumed during 1943 and the first quarter of 1944 produced 600,000,000 pounds of Buna S synthetic rubber, about 72 per cent of Buna S world production.

From 1875 to 1886 Japan had 658 earthquakes.

Hitler's "Miraculous" Escape Called Goebbels' Greatest Hoax

By CURT RIESS
Written for NEA Service

If the bomb assault on Hitler had represented a large-scale conspiracy—if there had been real danger of German officers trying to get rid of the Fuehrer—Nazi propaganda would have done everything possible to hide such a truly alarming fact from the German population.

As a matter of fact, Hitler was not in his study at all when the bomb exploded.

In the complex events in Germany during the past few weeks, there are elements of both a real conspiracy which failed, and a faked conspiracy. It all started last June 28 with a meeting of high Nazi leaders, representatives of the German armament industry and food distribution leaders in Berlin.

At that time Germany's military situation looked dark. Cherbourg had fallen; the Russians were breaking through; the Nazis were steadily retreating in Italy. The meeting was called because of demands from the army for more weapons and ammunition, and from the Party for more food for the civilian population.

All those present were aware that it was impossible to increase armament production because of the shortage of manpower. Something new and drastic had to be done. Total mobilization was needed, though that meant that the standard of life in Germany would have to be lowered to a point where it consisted only of fighting or working for the war effort every waking minute, with just enough food and sleep to keep soldiers and workers alive.

Dr. Goebbels, master propagandist, knew that to justify the need for such great new sacrifices was an almost impossible task even for him. He needed to devise a shock treatment which would make the bomb-stunned German people accept the new sacrifices of total mobilization. He recalled two other shock treatments which had worked well in the past: the Reichstag Fire and the Blood Purge. Both disasters had united or reunited the people behind Hitler.

The new crisis, however, required something even stronger. The only thing that seemed to qualify was a miracle, and on July 26, after the shock treatment had been applied, Goebbels told the German people: "I can only say that, if the salvation of the Fuehrer from extreme danger to his life was no miracle, then there just are no miracles at all."

But did Goebbels create out of nothing the conspiracy against Hitler, complete with bomb assault? The answer to this is No! There was a conspiracy in expectation, or rather there were elements of a conspiracy.

Colonel Count Claus Schenk von Stauffenberg of Hitler's private staff was actually conspiring against the Fuehrer.

This man came from an old German Catholic noble family. He lost an eye and an arm in the Hitler regime. That was in 1935, when former leaders of Catholic workers' unions planned to do away with the Nazis and made contact with von Witzleben, who later retired in the decisive moment and betrayed his co-conspirators.

General Friedrich Olbricht, leader of the Army units stationed in Germany, was definitely not involved. He was loyal, but still the Nazis had to get rid of him. Olbricht was opposed to total mobilization and had told the Fuehrer so. That, then, was the situation as Goebbels set about to stage his miracle.

On July 20, Count von Stauffenberg was ordered by the Propaganda Ministry to fly from Berlin to Berchtesgaden with important documents to be delivered to General Jodi, Hitler's military adviser. Then he was to fly back to Berlin, go directly to General Olbricht's office in the Army Ministry in the Bendlerstrasse, and there await further orders from Goebbels.

Stauffenberg received a large briefcase shortly before 8 a. m., and immediately after took off for Berchtesgaden in a special courier plane. Landing in Berchtesgaden shortly after 10 a. m., he delivered the briefcase to General Jodi. We don't know what the General did with it, but it seems logical that he opened it, for otherwise what was the sense of sending the papers by special courier? It may therefore be assumed that the briefcase did not contain a bomb.

The time of the explosion was 11:30. The official account later said that Count Stauffenberg left after the explosion had taken place. The fact is, however, that the Count took off a few minutes after 11; that the plane made a landing at the Munich airport; that the Count stayed over for lunch with a friend and distant relative. He resumed his flight to Berlin shortly after 2 p. m.

It will be recalled that the official version of the assault on the Fuehrer said that the briefcase containing a bomb was placed near Hitler's feet; that the explosion wrecked his entire study, a table with maps being blown out of the window. The chief of the Luftwaffe Staff, General Guenther Korten, presumably standing behind Hitler, was killed. General Jodi, presumably standing next to the Fuehrer, was seriously wounded. But Hitler was saved by a miracle. Providence had watched over the Fuehrer.

Nazi leaders met to discuss total mobilization. To what greater sacrifice, Goebbels needed a miracle.

So Hitler was "spared by Providence", though no one could escape unhurt from this shattered room.

Spectacular trials of the "blue-blooded swine" masked the real motive, total mobilization . . .

Goebbels' "miracle" provided the shock treatment. He wins acclaim now, but what of tomorrow?

However, since it was not Providence, but Joseph Goebbels, who had been at work, some holes appear in the story of the bombing.

First, not even a man so trusted as Count von Stauffenberg could deposit a briefcase at Hitler's feet without everybody in the room noticing the strangeness of such an action.

Second, nobody in the room which, as photos prove, was thoroughly damaged, could have escaped without injury. Least of all the Fuehrer, who was right next to the exploding bomb.

There are strong indications that Hitler was not in his study at the time of the bombing, but was on his way from the Eagle's Nest to his home in Berchtesgaden. In any case, the meeting during which the bomb was said to have exploded was called not for 11 o'clock but for noon, an hour before which Hitler, who goes to bed in the early morning hours, never attends to official business.

Goebbels needed actual victims at the scene of the bombing. Otherwise the fact that Hitler was saved could not be called a miracle. Nazis being what they are, it may be assumed that the Propaganda Minister marked as "expendables" such men as Heinrich Berger, one of Hitler's confidential secretaries, and the Generals Korten and Heinz Brandt.

As soon as the bomb went off, SS officials rushed in and examined what was left of it. They proclaimed that the bomb was of English origin. But would German officers conspiring to assassinate the Fuehrer have to import a bomb from England?

Goebbels' miracle proved an effective shock treatment. For days Germany spoke of nothing else but the miracle of Hitler's escape. The generals were called "blue-blooded swine" by Minister Robert Ley, and generally blamed for the reverses on the military front.

All of this proved so exciting and sensational to the German-in-the-street that it never occurred to him there was no connection whatsoever between the so-called plot of the generals and the Total Mobilization which Goebbels decreed immediately following the dramatic events of July 20.

Another new plastic. A new featherweight plastic, which expands to 30 times its normal size in 10 minutes, has been developed which promises to have many peace-time applications especially as an insulator.

Dr. Oscar A. Benson, of Chicago, vice president of the Augustana Synod, was one of the special speakers for the 90th anniversary celebration held over the weekend by the Lutheran church at Chandlers Valley.

Festivities began at 3:30 p. m. Saturday, with Dr. Felix V. Hanson, of Jamestown, president of the New York Conference, delivering the sermon for a Swedish service.

After this, the group adjourned to the site of the memorial to be dedicated in 1946 to early Swedish settlers of the valley. Charles Eckman, president of the Chandlers Valley-Jamestown Historical Commission, spoke for a short prayer service.

There were reservations for more than 80 persons for the historical banquet held at six o'clock in the church basement, when executive members of the historical commission were present and Samuel Carlson, former mayor of Jamestown, was the speaker.

A historical service was held at 8:15, with Dr. Benson as the main speaker. There was special music and a dedicatory service for the Pioneer Chapel recently completed by the Young Women's Missionary Society. This chapel holds all the early historical relics which have been preserved through the years.

Dr. Benson spoke again on Sunday morning and the choir provided special musical selections. Preceding the church service, Sunday school was conducted by Elmore Carlson, of Sheffield, who plans to enter the theological seminary at Rock Island, Ill., this fall.

The First Lutheran church of Jamestown, daughter of the Hessel Valley parish, had charge of the anniversary service at 3 p. m. Sunday. Rev. Constant Johnson speaking and the church choir singing four anthems under the direction of Prof. Per Olsson. Greetings were extended at this time from the Augustana Synod, New York Conference and Warren District.

Following a buffet luncheon served in the church basement the 18th annual confirmation reunion was addressed by Rev. A. A. Fant, former pastor, and a memorial service was held for confirmands and members who have died in the past year. An honor service was also held for those of the church who are in the armed services. Special music was an added feature of this service, which brought to a close the two-day celebration.

The Hessel Valley Lutheran congregation is the oldest Swedish congregation in the New York and New England conferences, being first organized in 1854. History reveals many interesting facts of the trials, hardships and progress of these early Swedish settlers.

The first resident pastor was Rev. Jonas Swenson, who came from Sweden in 1856 and started organized effort to build a church in the community. Here was born his son, C. Swenson, who later was the founder of Bethany College at Lindsborg, Kans.

In 1864, Rev. C. O. Hultgren accepted a call to the parish but resided in Jamestown, dividing his time between the two congregations. In 1869 Rev. H. O. Lindblad came as pastor and his records show that members were from far and near: Youngville, Garland, York Hill, North Warren, Warren, Irvinston, Farmington, Pine Grove, Quaker Hill, Kinzua, Sheffield, Ludlow, Wetmore, Ridge, Derrick City, Bradford, Pardoe, Wilcox, Tidouite, Triumph, Irwin (below Pittsburgh), Harrisville in Potter county, Jersey Shore (near Williamsport) and Busti, N. Y.

Rev. C. A. Johnson, who came in 1879, was the last pastor in the old church building located where the present Lutheran cemetery is now laid out and served as the first in the present red brick structure in the Valley.

Pastors in the new church, beginning in 1886, were Rev. A. P. Lindstrom, from 1886; Rev. P. A. Carlson, 1891 to 1894; Rev. J. A. Forslund, 1895 to 1898; Rev. P. S. Miller, 1898 to 1907, and Rev. J. A. Carlson, who came in 1908 and remained until his death in 1932. He served the longest pastorate, nearly 24 years.

After Rev. Carlstrom's death, vice pastors served until the coming of Rev. A. A. Fant in 1933. He served five years and is the only living former pastor. He is now serving a church in Summit, N. J. The present pastor, Rev. Wallace B. Johnson, came in 1940.

It is with gratitude and thankfulness to God that members of the congregation look back on these years of progress and forward to further accomplishment in the years to come.

Forgers Win From Colored Giants By Score of 5 to 3

Andy Natale's double in the third inning with the bases loaded paved the way for the Forgers' 26th win of the year. Diz Hines on the mound for the Warrenites proved that the old stuff that fools the is still there. Though outmatched in the hitting department, the Negroes managed to get more men on bases but could not send them across the keyhole. The score was 5 to 3.

In the first inning, the Buffaloes started off with two doubles which scored the first run of the ball game. In the Forgers' half they outmatched the colored boys by connecting with two singles by Morrison and Natale, a walk for Creola, and Rosequist got on base on an error, which altogether gained them two runs to almost put the game on ice.

The Giants didn't come through until the ninth, while in the meantime, the NFO men were striving for more tallies. In the third, Massa and Morrison singled and Rosequist walked to load the bases. Up came Slugger Natale to drive a hard double between the left and center fielders to bring in the scores which clinched the ball game.

In the first half of the ninth, Abrams, who came in for the Giants in the fourth to hurl, lambasted a triple into center field and was driven in by McQueen's single which made the final count 5-2.

(By Joe Gardner)

When you are approached by a member of the Kiwanis club and asked to buy a tag for the old timers baseball game at the hospital Aug. 26th just keep in mind that the entire proceeds of the tag sale, both on the streets, during the week, prior to the game and at the game itself will go to help some crippled or underprivileged youngster of Warren County.

Doctor Jack Utley is in charge of the tag sale and reports very encouraging results even at this early date. Your contribution can be fifty cents or more as your conscience dictates. Just keep in mind that for such a lowly figure you will see "Hugh" Bedient, Art Johnson, Ray Caldwell, "Pike" Peterson, Swat Erickson and a host of other old timers go out there and caper around like youngsters at a corn roast. You will see a ball game replete with thrills for the time "play ball" is called until they carry out the last stretcher and wheel away the last chair. The Jamestown old timers are some young players at the finish of the game and thus stacked the lineup, taking advantage of old age—true Warren did sneak in a rabbit punch when they slipped "Rabbit" Swanson into the lineup in the sixth inning but then "Red" is just a few steps away from his fiftieth birthday so let them howl. Now that the last end of the baseball season approaches it must be noted with satisfaction that in spite of Hitler and Tojo's successor our National sport has more than held its own.

"Darkhorse" From Evansville Bows Over Nelson in P. G. A.

By RUSS NEWLAND

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 21.—(P)—He wasn't given much of a chance when the tournament opened, in fact was dismissed with the classification of a "coner," but Bob Hamilton carried the title of 1944 National P. G. A. golf champion on his name today.

The "darkhorse" from Evansville, Ind., 28 years old and playing in this tournament for the first time, defeated Byron Nelson, Toledo, O., 1 up over 36 holes yesterday. It was the No. 1 upset of the tournament, in fact the biggest reversal in 26 championships.

Only the victory of Tom Creavy over Denny Shute in 1931 approached Hamilton's achievement. He beat the country's best golfer when he beat Nelson the final green to receive the acclamation of more than 7,000 fans.

And in defeat, Nelson was still the best golfer of the field, when considered on a medal play basis. The man from Ohio played 196 holes in thirty shots under par. Only on the final day when he saved two 70 rounds did he fail to complete eighteen holes in the 60s.

Yet he won only second money of $1500. Hamilton, who played 205 holes during the seven days in 12 under par figures, had it over his rival on the last day. He posted a 70, then a 69, and his one-hole margin for the tense match play battle paid off richly, $3500 worth.

Incidentally, Hamilton defeated the two outstanding golfers of the country. He beat Harold McSpadden, Philadelphia, leading money winner of the year, 2 and 1 in the quarter finals.

Swanson Day Arrangements Are Complete

Final plans for the "Red" Swanson Day to be held Sunday, August 27th at Russell Field have been completed and everything points to a banner celebration.

Tickets for reserved seats have already gone on sale by the players of the Struthers club and the committee in charge of the sales says that the demand for them has been such that the limited number that will be reserved will be gone within the next day or so. The reserve seats are the choice seats along the first base line. However there will be seats for every one as the Struthers management expects to erect more bleachers on the third base side of the field.

The afternoon will begin at 2:30 p. m. when the augmented Struthers Wells Band will play a concert of popular numbers. They will feature as soloists, Mrs. Harry Drivas and "Dutch" Snyder. After the concert will come any formalities that come naturally in a day of this sort and will be followed by the ball game between the Struthers Wells Club and "Huck" Geary's Stars and Stripes Baseball Club of Niagara Falls, N. Y. Although this club comes to Warren as the highest paid club this season, it is only fitting that a club of this calibre be brought to Warren for this occasion.

Tryout Camp Ready to Open On Saturday

Arriving in Warren on Friday, the St. Louis Cardinals will look about to spot any baseball talent which could be of use to their club. Boys from all sections of northwestern Pennsylvania and southwestern New York are expected to be on hand for a crack at big league stuff.

Well-known scouts . . . Joe McDermott, Walter Shannon, and Tony Kaufmann, will be on hand to show the boys, through a carefully developed program, every chance to show their arm, fielding, hitting, and speed. These qualities will show them whether or not the boys have a baseball future.

All expenses must be assumed by the player. All equipment needed will be glove, shoes, and a uniform. The tryouts will begin promptly at 10:00 a. m. Friday at the State Hospital diamond and will last until 2:00 p. m. These same hours will be observed on Saturday.

The Kane golfers have planned a complete program for the local team and will either match their golfers against the Warren team or permit selection of foursomes by the visiting members.

The prize mentioned on the bulletin board at the local club includes dinner and green fees and a good showing is expected to attend.

Reservations should be mailed to the Kane Country Club by next Thursday and handicaps of each player should be included as there will be a special handicap event along with the match play.

On Saturday, the 3 floors had the bases loaded with only one out when police stopped the game under the Bradford curfew law. Batavia climbed into second place by defeating the Wellsville Yankees, 4-2.

The Olean Oilers and the Jamestown Falcons split a doubleheader. The Falcons won the opener, 13-5, and the Oilers took the seven-inning nightcap, 6-1.

Fifty Years With "Red" Swanson

The two team league of Oil City and Franklin lasted through 1917, 1918 and part of 1919. When this league broke up "Rabbit" was out of a baseball job just long enough to sign for a telegram from "Rube" Haggerty at Reynoldsville, Pa. to finish the season out with him.

In the spring of 1920 "Red" was signed by Brookville where he spent the 1920 and 1921 seasons.

It was while playing for Brookville that he had the distinction of playing in a game that was started twice because the visiting team got too many runs to begin with. The story goes that Brookville was playing at Rosseter, Pa., a rough and ready town where they took their baseball seriously and where it was high treason to defeat the home club. The game started very peaceful like and continued so until the third inning when a Brookville player hit one close to the line with the bases loaded. The local umpire being kind of an honest sort of a fellow called the ball fair before he thought of the consequences. This put the visiting team three runs to the good and brought the wrath of the crowd around the ears of the umpire. Before the crowd could be dispersed, the umpire had disappeared.

Once again quiet reigned and the Rosseter manager quite emphatically suggested that the game be started over again with a player from each team as the umpires. "Pike" Peterson another local boy who had some of his experience gotten in Brookville was warmed up. "Pike" was at his best and even without the aid of his now famous "blooper ball" he set 'em down. The history books show that this game was just another win for Brookville, but nothing is ever said about the three runs that went out the gate with the umpire.

Dog Training Is Opened on Sunday

Many sportsmen took advantage of the crisp, cool weather of Sunday morning to begin the 1944 training season for all types of game dogs.

Cars parked along the highways and back roads testified to the great number who were out in the early morning, and the woods resounded all day with the noise of the chase.

Although the hunting season is still two months away the Field and Stream Club's tract of land on the Jackson run road also had quite a number covering the spacious area with both hounds and bird dogs.

Sunday training except upon public forests, is legal only after obtaining the landowner's permission.

Raccoon dogs may be trained from sunrise until midnight, and rabbit dogs to 9:00 p. m., Eastern War Time.

Carrying shotgun or rifle while training dogs is absolutely prohibited.

The Falcons won the opener, 13-5, and the Oilers took the seven-inning nightcap, 6-1.

The Hornell Pirates defeated the Lockport Cubs, 3-1.

Change Made By Forge For Sunday Game

The National Forge regrets having to cancel August 27th game with the Oakmont Club. The NFO management was notified that the Oakmont team will play at Forbes Field Sunday to determine which club will represent the Pittsburgh district in the National Tournament in Youngstown, Ohio. However, the Forge management hopes to schedule this club for a game in the first part of September.

Replacing Oakmont in next Sunday's encounter will be the Erie General Electric team which is holding down top berth in the Erie Glenwood League. The GE's have twice defeated the Erie Brabenders, 7-2, and 8-3, proving that this club will keep the Forgers on their toes every minute of the game, since the Ironmen had tough games with the Brabenders.

Thursday evening at 6:00 o'clock the Forge will come to grips with the Ashville, N. Y., club. This team is now leading the County League in which Ashville is situated. They are rated one of the best clubs in that part of the state and are expected to give the Forgers stiff opposition.

FORMER TITUSVILLE WOMAN DENIES CRIME
Salinas, Calif., Aug. 21—(P)—A former Titusville, Pa., woman today awaited a ruling on her release on bail in connection with charged that she killed a 19-year-old farmhand whose body was found beside a road July 15 with a bullet hole in the head.

Superior Judge H. G. Jorgensen set tomorrow as the date for his ruling after Mrs. Frances Andrews, 37, now of Carmel Valley, Calif., pleaded innocent to killing Jay Lovett, the farmhand, at a hearing Friday.

A motion by Defense Attorney Leo Friedman to quash the grand jury indictment against the woman was denied by Judge Jorgensen who then set Sept. 19 as the date for the murder trial.

Recreation Hut For Soldiers Planned at Bull Hill Camp

Prisoners of war and U. S. soldiers at the Bull Hill Camp are busy getting the camp and equipment in shape for the arrival soon of the main group of war prisoners. The camp is in charge of Captain Carl P. Long and Lieut. W. J. Westergaard and they are getting everything in ship shape. Most of the buildings at the camp are in good shape having been well looked after during the time they were unused.

Adjutant Bradenberg, of the local Salvation Army had calls on Saturday night from a group of the troops that are being used as guards and yesterday he visited the camp. He offered his best efforts to aid the men in doing anything possible and Captain Long suggested that a recreation room for the soldiers on guard would be a good thing.

Adj. Bradenberg has taken the matter up with the Warren Citizens Committee and it is expected that a meeting will be held soon at which the project will be discussed. Lieut. Westergaard feels that some means of recreation for the men is most important. A building formerly used by the CCC camp boys has been set aside as a recreation center for the camp. The structure has a raised rostrum at one end on which a piano, etc., were placed when the CCC camp was operated.

Lieut. Westergaard has given to Adj. Bradenberg a list of articles which are badly needed to equip the recreation hall. The needs as outlined are: barber tools, chairs, a davenport, lamps, tables for writing and games, ping pong tables, piano, rug, pool table and paint and brushes. Other things that can be included in the line of recreation would also be appreciated.

Adj. Bradenberg is anxious that the recreation center be opened as quickly as possible and anyone having any of the articles needed can contact him at Salvation Army, Phone 655 and he will call for the things and keep them at the Army building until a truck can be sent from the camp to get them. Paint and brushes can be used immediately by the soldiers as they wish to clean up and paint the interior of the building which has been set aside for their use.

The Citizens Committee is planning on giving all aid to the project as the U. S. Soldiers who will be stationed at the camp will have long hours when a game and reading room would be most highly appreciated. Warren people have always been most prompt in their response to appeals of the kind and this will be no exception.

SUGAR GROVE

Sugar Grove, Aug. 19.—The Hill and Dale Garden Club will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Lewis Barlow, at her home Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Loomis have received word that their son Harold located in Italy has received the Purple Heart but was not seriously injured. Another son, Alfred, stationed at Waycross, Ala. is spending a fifteen day furlough with his parents in Sugar Grove.

Corporal Forrest Judge is spending a furlough with his mother Mrs. Anna Millman in Sugar Grove. This is his first leave since he entered the Air Corps in December, 1942. He has received training as a radio man in several fields, coming home from Westover Field in Mass. and will report to Mitchell Field after completing his furlough.

An early legend on the discovery of fire-making says the buffalo gave fire to man. The animals racing across the plains lighted the darkness with sparks from their hooves, it was said, and set the brush ablaze.

Milkweed Pods to Be Picked By School Pupils

When H. L. Blair, county superintendent of schools issues his first fall bulletin on September 1, all teachers in the county will have special attention called to announcement that Pennsylvania school children have been asked to assist with the collection of milkweed pods "seriously needed in the production of life preserver packets and aviators' suits because of its buoyancy".

All farmers, owners of woodlots, township road and state highway workers have been urged to refrain from cutting milkweed along the highways, allowing the pods to mature so the floss may be gathered.

It is stated that this floss is used as a substitute for kapok, now controlled by the Japanese, and that millions of pounds must be collected in the United States in the next two months.

In addition to school children, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and other interested organizations are asked to assist in carrying out this project.

Rural sections of Warren county have many milkweed patches and the growth is said to be particularly good this season. Pods must be picked at just the proper time, that is, when the seeds start to turn brown and a few of the pods start to open.

The pods are then hung up to dry in open mesh bags like onion sacks and are dried for several weeks.

The best season in Warren county seems to be between September 1 and 15 and it is expected the mesh bags will be here for distribution to teachers and other county leaders by that time.

Fall Weather In This Area

Following one of the warmest spells of weather that this section has undergone in a long time some real fall weather seems to have arrived. The mercury dropped in the thermometers down into the low fifties and there was a tang in the air that felt much like October.

And to cap the climax a report comes from Endeavor this morning that on Saturday night the followers there were witted by a frost that affected gardens and flower beds. The frost is said to have been quite severe.

In this immediate vicinity no frost was reported but the air was chill and in many homes fires were lighted last evening to take the chill from out of the air.

LANDER

Lander.—The Clover Leaf lunch box 4-H club met at the grange hall, Tuesday for the final meeting of the year with six members and Mrs. Prendergast and Mrs. Lyan local leaders present. Several mothers were also present to partake of the lunches the girls had prepared. Plans were made to attend the round-up of all 4-H clubs to take place at the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday, August 22 at 10:00 o'clock a. m. Ellen Rapp conducted several games.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rickerson and family of Warren, visited Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Rickerson Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Sidon and son, Archie Billsborough of Starbrick, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Wedlock and son, of Pittsfield spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ira packed boxes of cookies and sent to boys in the service stationed in the U. S. Although Christmas seems a long way off it won't be long 'til packages sent overseas will have to be mailed and

LIQUID GOLD

I am oil.
I am the rich, black blood of earth,
Surging through the soil for ages beyond measure.

I waited to be found.
I waited while the centuries slipped by
And Man still stumbled slowly overhead.

I was ready.
I held within me worlds of endless power
Undiscovered. Strength unknown...unwanted...
Till that historic day in Titusville,
Till that wondrous day in '59
When Man first opened earth
And worked to set me free.

Liquid Gold, they called me—
And as I gushed in roaring torrents upward,
Men fought and died to have me...
To channel me, enslave me to their ends.

But there were other men who saw in me
A greater promise...for all Mankind

Honoring the occasion of the 85th Anniversary of the drilling of the first oil well by Colonel Edwin L. Drake at Titusville, Pa., this tribute is published by Tide Water Associated Oil Company, one of the great pioneers of petroleum, and the first company to lay a pipe line from the oil fields of Pennsylvania to the coast.

Tide Water Associated • World's Largest Refiner of Pennsylvania Oils
New York • Tulsa • San Francisco

On August 27, 1859, the first drilled oil well in the world was brought in.

Men who glimpsed my power
And had the vision of the future in their dreams.

Yes, I have served Man well
These five and eighty years...
I have sent his motors racing over roads,
Churned his ships through seas,
Pushed his straining tractors across fields,
And lifted him above the earth
To soar unchallenged through the skies.

Today, my precious might is harnessed for a greater cause.

Today the tanks of war, the trucks, the planes,
The very implements of Victory
Move forward on my strength.

Today, still greater reservoirs of power
Lie within me...waiting...ready.
And when the days of Peace return again,
I shall bring to Man
The rich, full promise of a better life...
I shall again unfold a vast new world to him.

Chapter 12
UNCLE FRANK'S gray head was shaking. "I'll have to go back. There's no reason though why Thad can't go."

Lucky looked at him. She swallowed once, fighting for control. "We've—lots of room."

Thad hesitated. "I'd be swell. Of course. But—" he stopped, frowning. He looked at Uncle Frank. "There's—that other thing."

"Oh, yes, that."

Lucky was listening intently. Neither Thad nor her uncle seemed quite at ease. Especially Thad. What is it? Something about Di? She winced with pain.

Cappy broke in hospitably. "Certainly would suit us to have you."

But still Thad demurred. He didn't look at them, but at the grating in the cockpit floor.

Uncle Frank said, "Go on! You need a vacation. You can check on that, and send me a wire. Have a good time, boy." He turned to Lucky. "What's your first port of call?"

"Bimini. We're crossing tonight. By moonlight. We won't stay there long unless Ben wants to point. Then on to Nassau."

Thad grinned boyishly. "Sounds like those alluring travel folders! But you'd better not count on me."

Cappy persisted. "We don't sail till five o'clock. Just come if you can make it."

Thad looked at Lucky. Maybe he'd guessed his coming would disturb her. He mustn't! "Yes, leave it open," she urged. "If you'll telephone, we could even wait a while on you..."

After they'd gone, she sat in the cockpit, spent with the effort of being with him without letting him see how she felt. If minutes had been like that, could she stand days of it?

THAT afternoon was a pendulum of changing moods for Lucky. One moment she swung toward fear that Thad would come. It won't do any good. It'll just be harder—afterward. Yet the next she swung back to the numb hope that he would. Her eyes kept wandering up to the dock to the dockmaster's small wooden office, which housed the telephone. Or between the masts of the green ketch—toward the entrance. In either direction had she been rewarded when she left for the station to meet the Alans.

She had dressed carefully in a becoming lavender print, knowing she'd see in May's first quiet glance whether those three weeks of effort had been worth-while. And Thad might be on board when she got back. Not that it would mean anything, even if he noticed.

Don't be a little fool again, Lucky. May, her stocky figure smart in navy blue, was hardly off the train before she exclaimed, "Lucky! You look marvelous! You'd make headlines 'Island Gal Goes Bar Harbor!'"

Ben gave her his quick nervous smile, his dark eyes intent. "Never realized it. Your eyes are lilac. Ought to wear lavender all the time."

Lucky was comforted, but her thoughts were concentrating now on hurrying. It was almost four. Would Thad be on board when they got back?

THERE was no sign of him on deck and Cappy came up from below alone. Almost before she'd introduced the new arrivals, she asked, very casually, "Any news—while I was gone?"

Cappy had a faint twinkle in his eyes, but he didn't point out she'd been gone exactly thirty-seven minutes. Instead he scratched his head reflectively. "Mollie B left out for the Keys a few minutes ago."

"How nice. They've been wanting to get away." She tried without success to keep from looking along the dock toward the entrance. It was bare of people.

At quarter of five she went to the main cabin where May, already changed to tailored blue slacks, was unpacking. "Anything you want to get uptown before we sail? No shopping in Bimini much, you know."

May said, no, she had everything.

Lucky went aft to the galley, just to be sure Cappy'd overlooked nothing. He hadn't. She couldn't even think up a plausible need.

The ship's clock struck a melodious ding-ding.

Lucky listened, head bent. Her eyes dimmed with disappointment. Then she brought her chin up sharply. She called through the hatch, "Five o'clock, Cappy! I'll be up to help you cast off as soon as I change."

As a gesture toward finality, she put on her oldest, most faded dungarees. She heard the auxiliary kick over and take up its steady drumming in the engine compartment beyond her cabin.

She went out and up the steps. Halfway up she stopped.

BULLETIN
Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 21.—(P)—American tanks had thrust into sectors on opposite sides of Paris today and Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery told Allied troops the enemy in northwestern France had suffered a defeat, definite, complete and decisive "with the end of the war in sight."
The Americans had established a firm bridgehead across the Seine at Mantes, 25 miles northwest of the capital, where they threatened a sweep toward the rocket coast. But they were meeting heavy resistance in that direction.

Defiant patriots were reported today to have hoisted Allied flags Paris as Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's armor threatened a wide out-

Algiers Reports Capture Of Toulouse by Marquis Forces

London, Aug. 21.—(P)—The Algiers radio said today that on Monday the Maquis captured Toulouse, sixth largest city of France. Toulouse (Pop.: 215,200) is in the southwest, 60 miles north of the Spanish border. Frequent reports have told of German withdrawals from that area. French patriots now control one of France comprising eight departments, says Gen. Joseph de Gaulle, commander of the French forces of the interior.
Reports related here through the Bou, Spain, said the Maquis controlled the entire Pyrenees region, both Switzerland and Germany, and that Laval had established headquarters in a chateau 10 miles outside Belfort.
Marshal Petain's whereabouts was a mystery.

SOVIET FORCES BATTER THREE GERMAN UNITS

In Warsaw Sector Russians Drive Closer to Praga, Suburb to East of Warsaw

REVERSES IN LATVIA

By EDDIE GILMORE
Moscow, Aug. 21.—(P)—Soviet forces have smashed three Nazi divisions in the Sandomierz salient below Warsaw, while other Red army units have yielded slightly before costly German attempts to rescue possibly 200,000 troops isolated on the Baltic front, a Russian communique announced today.

In the Warsaw sector, meanwhile, Russian troops have driven closer to Praga, suburb to the east of the city and have captured some vital positions on the north-east front, the communique said.

Marshall J. B. Stimson's first Ukrainian army, moving up the west bank of the Dniester, liquidated the trapped Germans north of Sandomierz.

The victory freed Konev's forces for a possible drive either south-west on the rail fortress of Krasnodar, north toward Warsaw, or directly west across the Polish plains toward German Silesia, which would stop the Polish capital's communications.

The slight Red army reverses occurred in the Jelgava sector near the Gulf of Riga, where 144 German tanks and self-propelled guns were reported knocked out.

In Estonia, Gen. Ivan Saslenikov's Third Baltic army, capturing more than 150 prisoners, placed 100 miles from the Gulf of Riga on the Tallinn-Riga railway.

Below the Estonia sector in Latvia, Gen. Andrei Yeremenko's second Baltic army, sweeping up more than 70 places, advanced to within 55 miles east of Riga with the capture of Eglina on the Madona-Riga railway.

Maslennikov and Yeremenko were hammering back the snarled Nazis in the Baltics, cut off by Gen. Ivan C. Bagramian's first Baltic army drive that reached the Baltic sea 25 miles west of Riga several weeks ago.

Ever since "his wedge was established beyond Riga the Nazis have been hurling counterattacks in an attempt to break through to their trapped divisions.

Officials Plan Fight To Halt Polio Epidemic

Washington, Aug. 21.—(P)—The Public Health Service said today the poliomyelitis epidemic grew worse in the first two weeks of August. Cases reported in the week ended Aug. 5 numbered 932.

In the following week there were 1,015 cases.

This brought the nation-wide total since the start of the outbreak to nearly 4,250 cases.

Harrisburg, Aug. 21.—(P)—County medical directors throughout Pennsylvania were swinging into action in independent fights against infantile paralysis as unofficial reports from over the state indicated that nearly 500 persons had already been stricken in the present outbreak.

At Gettysburg, Dr. C. G. Crist called a meeting of all doctors in Adams county and announced the barring of all children under 15 from churches, Sunday schools, and public gatherings as the county's second case was discovered at Littlestown.

Opening of public schools were set back until Sept. 18 at Sayre, in Bradford county, declared Board Secretary Samuel J. Kresge, because of the prevalence of the disease in adjoining Tioga, with a scattering of cases in Bradford.

Dr. A. H. Stewart, state secretary of health, listed Tioga and Allegheny counties as the two most widely infected spots, with 77 cases in the former and 94 officially listed in the Pittsburgh area although health authorities there have acknowledged 113 cases.

In Philadelphia, Dr. Rufus S. Reeves, director of public health said that ten new cases were reported over the week-end but that they had not been certified by the bureau of public health.

New York, Aug. 21.—(P)—The champion blood donor of Suffolk county, Samuel Wechsler, 36, donated his 19th pint of blood to the Manhattan Red Cross.

Refineries In Slovakia And Poland Fired

Rome, Aug. 21.—(P)—About 500 American bombers set fire to two oil refineries in Poland and one in Czechoslovakia yesterday and for the first time encountered only a few enemy fighters over those heretofore fiercely defended regions.

The Fortresses bombed the big I. G. Farbenindustrie Synthetic oil and rubber factory at Oswiec in Poland, about 30 miles west of Krakow starting three great fires. The plant has a capacity of 62,500 tons of oil, annually.

The Liberators caused fires and explosions in a Vacuum Oil Refinery at Czechowice, Poland, 5 miles west of Krakow, and a State Oil Refinery at Dubova Czechoslovakia, 70 miles southwest of Krakow.

The only aerial opposition against the big bombers came near Budapest, when less than 20 Me-109s and FW190s jumped the Fortresses en route to Poland. Escorting Mustangs quickly drove them off.

Railroads at Szolnok, Hungary, and Rakoczifalva airdrome, four miles southeast of Szolnok, also were bombed by the Liberators.

Last night, RAF Halifaxes, Liberators and Wellingtons attacked a tank factory at St. Valentin, 12 miles northeast of Steyr in Austria.

Kimmel Criticizes Article by Truman

Washington, Aug. 21.—(P)—Rep. Church (R-Id.) told the house today that the full story of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, Dec. 7, 1941 "will shock the world" and added: "Washington was to blame."

Washington, Aug. 21.—(P)—Rear Admiral Husband E. Kimmel told Senator Truman (D-Mo.) today that the Roberts report "does not contain the basic truths of the Pearl Harbor catastrophe" and added that a magazine article by Truman dealing with the Hawaiian disaster contained "false statements."

Protesting that the article was based on the report prepared by Associate Justice Owen J. Roberts of the supreme court, the former naval commander at Pearl Harbor asked in a letter to Truman that "you refrain from repeating charges based on evidence that has never met with the test of public scrutiny."

Kimmel and Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short, army commander in Hawaii at the time of the Japanese attack, both await court martial on charges of dereliction of duty.

Bayonne Defenses Undergo Shelling

By CHARLES FOLTZ
Trun, Spain, Aug. 21.—(P)—Three light Allied cruisers began shelling almost non-existent German defenses in the Bayonne area of southern France before dawn today.

Spanish residents of this border town 18 miles to the south had a grandstand seat.

The cruisers which first patrolled the coast south of Bordeaux evidently were feeling out German defenses, but drew only an occasional reply from two or three coastal batteries near Bayonne.

South of Bayonne Hitler's Atlantic wall no longer exists, for the Germans pulled out last night, leaving their defense works in ruins.

The three Allied warships were plainly visible from the Spanish coast when the fog veiling their approach had lifted.

They shelled the coastline methodically for more than half an hour.

FLAMES OF DESTRUCTION FOLLOW RAIDS

Nips Suffer Double Strike As MacArthur's Airmen Finish Off Defenses Guarding Philippines

CHINESE LUNGE AHEAD

BULLETIN
Washington, Aug. 21.—(P)—B-29 bombers in the second wave of Sunday's double-strike at Japan reported today sighting the flames of destruction wrought by the daylight flight of superfortresses while still a half-hour flight from industrial targets on Kyushu. Four of the huge bombers reported to enemy action in the coordinated day and night attacks by the 20th Air Force. The announced losses all were sustained by the day raiders which met strong fighter opposition.

By J. B. KRUEGER
Associated Press War Editor
Superfortresses jolted the home islands of Japan with a double punch Sunday, a Liberator sank a 14,200-ton Japanese cruiser and Gen. MacArthur's persistent airmen finished off enemy aerial defenses guarding the southern Philippines.

In the first daylight operation against Japan proper since the 1942 Doolittle raid, the Superforts of the 20th Air Force got "good" results in a strike at the industrial area of Yawata on Kyushu. Apparently it was the heaviest raid yet against Japan. Tokyo said 80 planes were involved. The army said four B-29s were lost. Enemy fighters strongly resisted and anti-aircraft fire was moderate to intense.

A quick follow-up raid sent a smaller force of B-29s over the same northern Japan area Sunday night. The two raids cost the Japanese 12 planes destroyed, 12 probably destroyed and ten damaged. Tokyo admitted some damage.

The heavy cruiser went down Saturday, Gen. Joseph Stilwell's headquarters reported, under three direct hits and one probable.

Furious Chinese lunged at Japanese trying to reinforce the Hunan offensive. Though Hengyang was lost, the Chinese resistance denied Japan the fruit of its capture—control of the Hankow-Canton railway.

Chinese in Yunnan province kept digging at Japanese holed up in Tengchung and captured a hill position clearing the way for an assault on Lungling, another southwestern China base vital to Allied hopes of reopening the Burma road.

Correspondent Is Killed In France

New York, Aug. 21.—(P)—Tom Treanor, war correspondent for the Los Angeles Times and the National Broadcasting Co., has been killed on the road to Paris.

Advices to supreme headquarters in London said it was reported one other American correspondent had been killed and three wounded.

Treanor's death was announced from France by John MacVane, another NBC reporter there, who said:

"The jeep in which Treanor was riding was run over by an American tank."

Treanor recently published a book of his experiences as a war correspondent, called "One Damn Thing After Another."

CHILD ELECTROCUTED

Pittsburgh, Aug. 21.—(P)—One-year-old Francis Dilmore was electrocuted while crawling over a floor register at his home here Saturday. The coroner said a short circuit in a living room lamp apparently transferred the fatal shock through his body to the register.

Message Brings Sorrow To Pleasant Township Family

Mr. and Mrs. James Rhoades, of Warren Rd 3 this morning received a telegram from Adj. General J. A. Uilo which carried the sad news that their son, Dewey, who had previously been reported as missing had been killed in France on July 27. It was stated that a letter with more details of the young man's death would be received at a later date.
Dewey Rhoades was well and favorably known to a large circle of friends in this city. He attended the Pleasant township schools and at the time he entered the service was employed at the plant of Barnhart and Davis. He entered the army a year ago last May and received his training at Camp Meade. Sent to England he was only there about two weeks until being placed among the invasion troops, went to France to rout the Hun.
His parents and three brothers, two of whom are in the United States service survive.

Parley For Enduring Peace Opens at Dumbarton Oaks

By JOH N. HIGHTOWER
Washington, Aug. 21.—(P)—Representatives of the United States, Great Britain and Russia today began planning a world security organization which all agreed must be based on the "sovereign equality" of large and small nations alike, and must be backed by military forces available promptly and in strength.

Secretary of State Hull opened the initial session of the historic conference at Dumbarton Oaks on the dot of 10:30 a. m., with a sharp rap of the gavel on the horseshoe shaped oak table and said:

"The conference will come to order."

In his opening address Hull called for strong commitments to use force when necessary, saying it "must be available promptly, in adequate measure, and with certainty."

Ambassador Andrei A. Gromyko, chief Russian delegate, responding to Hull, likewise emphasized the need for force capable of preventing a recurrence of World War.

Sir Alexander Cadogan, the British delegation's leader, like Hull and Gromyko emphasized the need for force and for fair treatment of small nations, but he declared additionally that "peace may come sooner than some expect" and that therefore the conference should move swiftly toward setting up some framework of future international cooperation.

Expressly speaking for President Roosevelt as well as himself, Hull as official host opened the first session—the first international meeting to block out a security organization since formal work started on the ill-fated League of Nations 25 years ago. Cadogan (Turn to Page Two)

NEW PLAN TO CHECK BLACK MARKET GAS

Washington, Aug. 21.—(P)—A new program aimed at detecting black market gasoline sales will be put into effect on an experimental basis in Philadelphia next month and be extended to the rest of the country if it works, the Office of Price Administration announced today.

The plan requires that all gasoline distributors serving Philadelphia retail outlets report monthly the volume of sales at each outlet, compared with sales for the same month in 1942.

The reports will show whether any service stations have noticeably increased their gasoline business since the start of rationing.

Forrestal Lauds Eisenhower Tact

By HOWARD COWAN
Associated Press Correspondent representing the combined American Press
Gen. Eisenhower's Headquarters, Aug. 21.—(P)—Secretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal came away from a conference with Gen. Eisenhower today "tremendously impressed" with the spirit of cooperation which he said the supreme commander has fostered among the British and Americans in their allies.

"What he has done in the way of resolution between us and the British—and all our allies—is a great example for the rest of the world," Forrestal told a brief news conference.

The secretary came here after watching landings in southern France. He left this morning to visit Cherbourg.

The navy secretary said the pressure is on in the Pacific and that the trend in that theater was comparable to that in Europe.

"Speaking in terms of acceleration of our own planning," he said, "we are ahead of schedule."

TOULON BEING ISOLATED BY FRENCH ARMY

American Infantry, Within 15 Airline Miles of Marseilles, Fans Out and Heads For Rhone Valley

ENEMY DISORGANIZED

BULLETIN
Rome, Aug. 21.—(P)—American forces have captured Valensole, 50 airline miles north of Toulon. The U. S. Seventh army has entered Toulon. Forward elements are nine miles from Marseilles. On the coast east of Toulon the French captured the enemy stronghold of Redon and Hotel De Golf, a mile from Hyeres.

By NORLAND NORGAARD
Rome, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Hard driving French troops virtually encircled Toulon, breaking through to within three miles of the naval base while American infantry, within 15 airline miles of Marseilles, fanned out today through the Durance valley and headed for the Rhone against disorganized enemy resistance.

The Americans sped forward on both sides of the town of Pertuis, 11 miles north of Aix-en-Provence across the Durance river, and joined French patriots who had surrounded Nazi troops within the town.

Another of Major Gen. Alexander M. Patch's American columns charged on several miles to the northeast of Aix, key junction of seven highways 15 miles north of Marseilles. Another unit was last reported in the outskirts of Aix and today possibly had completed occupation of that town.

A dispatch from Joseph Dwyer, Associated Press correspondent with French troops driving on Toulon, said French commandos, joined with Patriot forces and former members of the French navy, were dominating the Faron area just north of Toulon.

The Nazi garrison in Hyeres, about 8½ miles east of Toulon, was virtually isolated. Dwyer said. The Germans have given no indication of strength or determination to make a real stand in or near the mouth of the Rhone valley, the natural invasion highway for a juncture with Gen. Eisenhower in northern France.

Disorganization among the Germans indicated the Nazi command might be resigned to eventual defeat. (Turn to Page Seven)

RECORD LAUNCHINGS

Philadelphia, Aug. 21.—(P)—Naval launching history was made at the Philadelphia navy yards today when the Antietam, 27,900-ton aircraft carrier, and the Los Angeles and the Chicago, 13,000-ton cruisers, slid down the ways. Ralph A. Bard, undersecretary of the navy, said it was "the largest launching at one time and one place in all naval history."

Rocket Guns Used Against Robots

London, Aug. 21.—(P)—Britons, counting dozens of dead and injured after a sharp weekend flying bomb attack, found cheer today in news that rocket guns were being used successfully against the robots.

British hope of relief from flying bombs was heightened by prospects that swift Allied advances in Western France soon might drive the Nazis from some of their launching sites.

Both British coastal and aerial observers expressed belief some launching platforms already had been forced to move further north.

The rocket guns, such as defended London last spring, were reported considerably successful in knocking down flying bombs short of their targets. But nevertheless, sporadic robot attacks took a toll of lives and property in London and the southern counties yesterday and assaults were resumed again today.

Patton Accounts For 109,575 Nazis in Dash

With the U. S. Third Army in France, Aug. 21.—(P)—Lt. Gen. Patton's U. S. Third Army has inflicted 109,575 casualties on the Germans since Aug. 1 in his dash across Brittany and northern France to the outskirts of Paris.

Registrants In 4-F Being Classified

Harrisburg, Aug. 21—(P)—Draft boards in Pennsylvania have started reviewing registrants under 26 classified 4-F in order to qualify young men for military duty, declared Lt. Col. John M. Smith, deputy director of selective service.

"We are trying to reduce the 4-F pool and get these registrants in military service or in other classifications wherever possible," said Col. Smith.

The deputy director explained lower standards now apply mainly to eyes and ears and it is from this group of registrants that authorities hope to obtain additional servicemen.

Also facing a review of their 4-F status, he added, are those registrants disqualified for service because of failure to meet minimum intelligence standards.

"We have not lowered our intelligence standards, but more accurate tests are now being used," the deputy director explained, adding "these cases should be carefully distinguished from those of registrants rejected for neurological and psychiatric disorders."

TWO ARE WOUNDED

Confirmation is given today in an official War Department release to the Associated Press that two more local men have been wounded in action in the European area. They are 2nd Lt. Elyne A. Conroe, 53 Grant street, Tidouette, and Cpl. Clifford W. Barnhart, 15 Park street.

Cpl. Gerry Peterson, aerial gunner in the air corps at Fort Myers, Fla., is home to spend a furlough with his family and friends.

Sgt. Emerson S. Hyatt has returned to his base at Alamogordo, N. M., after having spent a 1-day furlough with his wife, the former Ann Krantz, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emerson M. Hyatt, Terrace street.

WOUNDED IN ACTION

Mrs. Harry A. Brown, Jackson Run, has received word that her son, Sgt. Carl E. Brown, who left here as a private first class with Company I, 112th Infantry, has been wounded in action in France and evacuated to England for hospitalization. Her last letter from him was written somewhere in France on July 24.

Parley for Enduring Peace Opens at Dumbarton Oaks

Ambassador Andre Gromyko, Soviet representative, spoke in response to Hull, who then turned over the leading American role to under-secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius, Jr.

Both Hull and Cagadan sought to reassure small nations as to their position in the projected world agency. It was on this point that Governor Thomas E. Dewey, Republican presidential nominee, last week warned against big-power coercion. Dewey later designated John Foster Dulles, his advisor in international affairs, to come here for conferences with Hull on the dumbarton talks. Dulles will arrive Wednesday.

Forge Plans Campaign For Many Men

Manager Levine of the Manpower Commission reported this morning that this week a campaign will be started by the National Forge and Ordnance Company of Irvine for a number of men employees. The loss of many men due to the draft has caused the National Forge and Ordnance Company to have places for a large number of men at their plant.

Arrangements are being made today for the handling of the campaign by the Employment Service of the Commission and it is expected that the first of a series of advertisements will appear this week. The National Forge has many attractive features for the men employed there such as insurance, hospitalization, etc.

River Resorts Attract Crowd Over Week

The past fortnight has seen more campers and cottagers in this county than ever before in its history. The gas shortage has caused hundreds from Western Pennsylvania to forego long vacation trips and the river and creek have come into their own. The fact that a breeze always blows off the streams makes them ideal vacation spots and every cottage and camp in this section has been occupied for weeks past.

The dire need is for more cottages and cabins along the streams and in the woodlands and there has been some discussion among sportsmen in the city as to the possibility of forming a company to erect a score or more of up to date camps.

With the cleansing of the river from sewage from the towns on its banks and on its tributaries, the fishing will be greatly bettered and with the stocking program that has been under way for some years gone by the Allegheny will come into its own. Ross Bailey, fish warden of this district reports some nice catches have been made despite the low water at this time.

Crashes Send 2 to Hospital Over Week

State Police officers from the local barracks were called out over the weekend to investigate two automobile crashes which sent two patients to Warren General Hospital, one with deep lacerations and a fracture of her left leg.

This accident occurred about 4:30 a. m. Sunday on Route 6, Conewago township, when Mr. and Mrs. Earl Felder, 1916 Pennsylvania avenue, east, struck a culvert and completely demolished their car. It is believed that the Felders, who were returning from a trip to Cleveland, O., both fell asleep momentarily and the car crashed. Mr. Felder was uninjured.

The second crash occurred about 10:30 Saturday night near Kane, when a car driven by Harry H. Walters, of Meadville, RD 5, left the highway and rolled completely over. His small daughter, Helen Virginia, aged seven years, was brought to Warren General Hospital for treatment of a laceration on her chin and X-ray further injury. She was discharged from the hospital on Sunday. The State Police are continuing their investigation of this accident.

TIMES TOPICS

GOING TO KANE

An exodus of golfers from towns in this section will take place next Sunday when they will go to Kane to participate in an individual district tournament being staged by the Kane club. The tournament promises to attract some of the best golfers in the district.

HAD REAL FAMINE

There was a real cigarette famine in Warren over the week end. Stores and machines were out of the most popular brands and a lot of folks got an introduction to brands they had never heard of before. This morning the machines were replenished and some of the dealers got in a new supply.

TWO GRASS FIRES

Firemen over the week end answered two alarms caused by grass fires and there was no loss suffered in either fire. The first call was on Saturday at 12:35 to Spring street and the second came yesterday when the firemen were called to 812 West Fifth street. The grass about town is dry and care should be exercised in starting bonfires and in burning rubbish.

PICNIC A SUCCESS

The annual picnic of the Marconi Club held Sunday at the clubhouse proved a success in every way. There were 415 in attendance and all thoroughly enjoyed the splendid chicken dinner. The chickens were barbecued and were excellent with all of the other's seasonable trimmings served. A baseball game between the Marconi Club and the Sylvania team resulted in a victory for the Sylvania and Joe Bevevino is reported as the lone casualty of the game as he may have sustained a broken thumb in stopping a fast one. Other games and sports passed the time rapidly and a general good time was enjoyed.

Hotelman Is Arrested In Titusville Raid

Nine separate charges were filed before Allen Love Saturday against Frank Dell whose European Hotel on South Franklin street was raided by state, county and city officers Friday night. All of the charges having to do with alleged violation of the liquor laws, Mr. Dell pleaded not guilty to them and asked for a hearing, which will take place the latter part of the week. He furnished a bail bond of $2,000.

Briefly, the charges are as follows:

- Adulteration or contamination of liquor.
- Unlawfully possessing liquor bearing the official retail seal of the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board.
- Possessing liquor not legally acquired prior to Jan. 1, 1934.
- Possessing sacrificial liquor illegally.
- Selling liquor to persons visibly intoxicated, minors, habitual drunkards or persons of known intemperate habits. (Three persons named.)
- Selling liquor on credit. (One person named.)
- Permitting dancing without a license.
- Permitting minors unaccompanied by parent or guardian to frequent a licensed place.
- Possessing liquors other than wine not permitted under his license.

The informations were drawn and signed by J. L. Andrews, one of the five State Control Board agents that participated in Friday night's raid and the warrants were served by Constable W. E. Mowl. Mr. Andrews was the only person present representing the prosecution. E. J. McDonald appeared as counsel for Mr. Dell.

It is understood that all of these charges are based on data obtained before the raid Friday night. Mr. Andrews said the hotel had been under investigation for several months, but gave no particulars. The dancing license referred to in one of the charges costs $100. Other alleged violations were mentioned by raiding officers Friday night, but if anything is done concerning them it will have to be initiated by District Attorney. There is no inkling what Mr. Rice will do, if anything.

'Frisco Swimmer Is Greatest Ever

By F. W. CRAWFORD
Kansas City, Aug. 21—(P)—Charley Sava, Ann Curtis' swimming coach, says his blond San Francisco pupil is only beginning to show what he can do.

The star of the Crystal Plunge Club finished her unprecedented grand slam yesterday by winning the 800 meters, her fourth free style title in the three-day national A. A. championships.

Sava put it this way: "Ann is the greatest woman swimmer who ever lived. She is the only girl who has won all the free style championships at the national, and she will do much better. Ann can beat most of the records now in the books by several seconds. The water was too warm here for record breaking."

Ask First at
Warren Bank and Trust Co.Forest Fire Warning Again
Sounded by Dep't Officers

With the dry weather continuing the forestry officials of both the Allegheny National Forest and the State Department of Forests and Waters repeat warnings about exercising care in the woods. A carelessly dropped cigarette or an emptied pipe may cause a fire that will burn over a large area and destroy much valuable property.

On Sunday there was an outbreak of fires in the Complanter District of the Department of Forests and Waters. The fire fighting crews were kept on the jump all day. On Little Hickory creek in Forest county two acres of brush were burned; on Lot 235 near Sheffield five acres in which a blaze was started by berry pickers were burned over; on the Miller Farm, on Oil Creek in Venango county two acres were burned; another fire was fought at Hunter station and a fire on the Gould lease near Clarendon was also quenched.

The Clarendon Fire Department on Sunday also had a field day answering nine alarms. They were out on the Gould lease fire and had fires between Beantown and Clarendon Heights and also had a quartette of grass fires on the highway near Clarendon Heights.

Fortunately none of the fires burned over any plantations of new plantings and no valuable timber was destroyed.

County Agent's News

Pullets Like to Eat and Drink in Shade

Pullets find greatest comfort on hot, dry days in the open shade the range affords. The pullets spread over a considerable area when the shade is scattered.

Water will remain cool longer and serve best in cooling the fowls when the waterers are placed in such shaded areas. Then, for location of some feeders in these shady spots will promote feed consumption during the heat of the day.

Many poultrymen follow the practice of placing some of their feeders and waterers in such shaded places. When the shelter is the sole shade available, a feeder and a waterer often are located indoors while other such equipment are scattered about the range and frequently move to reduce the hazard of bare spots.

Cabbage Plants Need Dust for Caterpillars

Attacks of three kinds of cabbage caterpillars have been severe the past few weeks and, unless the plants are dusted, may result in serious damage. Although the cabbage looper has been most prevalent, there is considerable activity of the diamond back and imported cabbage worm, caterpillars also.

Mr. Tritt urges heavy and regular applications of one-half per cent rotenone dust. If the cabbage is not to be harvested immediately, or with young cabbage plants, calcium arsenate may be mixed pounds to a hundred gallons. A sticking agent, either commercial brands or 2 pounds of wheat flour to each 100 gallons, will help the spray adhere to the cabbage leaves.

Increased Placements Reflect Farm Labor Needs in Pennsylvania

A steady rise in the number of placements being made this year in comparison to the same period of 1943 reflects the shortage of help on Pennsylvania farms and orchards, J. E. McCord, state supervisor of Emergency Farm Labor at the Pennsylvania State College, revealed after tabulating reports from the various counties.

Up to July 31, a total of 1,459 year-round placements were made on farms, as compared to 667 for the same period last year. And with the heaviest seasonal work

Yearling Heifers Need Adequate Feeds Now

While yearling heifers usually make good gains when feeding on pasture, they may not keep up their gains at this time of the year when pastures are short, reminds County Agent Tritt. Dairywomen are urged to keep a careful watch on the growing heifers and, when necessary provide extra feed during the next two months, so they will go into the fall and winter quarters in a good growing and thrifty condition. Extra feeds to supplement poor pasture can be dry hay or green feeds, the county agent says.

Congress created the Santa Rosa Fire Oak Timber reserve in Florida in 1917 to insure timber supplies for the Navy.

WAR POEM

In distant fields the cannon roar
The battle sound is clear,
We fight a war to end all wars
With peace for those who fear.

Someday soon the war will end
Our Father in Heaven thus knows
And then the nations rest in peace
With victory over our foes.

Triumphantly our boys will sail
Back home across the sea
A joyous cloud will welcome them
Home from their victory.

The many ne'er shall cross the waves
Our hearts with them still stay
There now they rest in quiet graves
Until the judgment day.

BASEBALL TRY-OUT CAMP

For the first time in the history of the great national past time aspiring young ball players in Warren and vicinity will have an opportunity to attend a baseball try-out camp to be conducted by the famous St. Louis Cardinals, now on the way to their third successive National League pennant.

The camp will be held on Friday and Saturday of this week at the Warren State Hospital diamond, tryouts to start at eleven o'clock the first day and ten o'clock Saturday.

There is no charge of any kind to take part in these tryouts, the only requirement being that boys bring their own baseball shoes, gloves and uniforms. Those not living in Warren must pay their own transportation to and from here and their living expenses while attending the camp. Boys signed to contracts by the Cardinals will have their expenses refunded to them.

All boys 16 years of age or over are urged to take advantage of this opportunity to display their diamond talents before Roy Dissinger and Charles "Pop" Kelchner, who will be dispatched to Warren by the Cardinals' home office to supervise the try-outs.

This is a rare opportunity for young players anxious to perform before big league tutors, as well as fans who enjoy watching the youngsters in action.

THE WEEKEND IN FRANCE

The German disaster in western Europe has intensified over the weekend, both in the Paris theatre and in southern France.

One of the most notable developments is the establishment of a bridgehead across the Seine at Nantes, 25 miles northwest of the capital, by one of Patton's armored columns. This was achieved while other American units continued their sweep around the south of Paris, thus threatening to flank the nerve center of Europe.

The cutting of the Seine at Mantes is of vast importance strategically. It means that the remnants of Nazi Field Marshal Von Kluge's battered 7th army, which have been retreating toward the Seine from the Normandy defeat, are now in a huge bowl-shaped trap whose lid is the river and a short stretch of coast southwest of the Seine's mouth.

The drive into southern France is going supremely well. The great naval base of Toulon is virtually surrounded by French troops, while American infantry is heading into the valley of the Rhone with the port of Marseille only about fifteen miles away on its left.

ANOTHER REASON

Police must prepare for "the bloodiest and most costly crime wave in history" after the war, Edward J. Hickey, Connecticut state police commissioner, warns, with the "ever-growing number of juvenile delinquents graduating into the criminals of tomorrow."

That is a warning which our postwar planners—federal, state, local and private—should read and heed. For it's still true that "Satan has work for idle hands to do." And it's also true that the fullest possible employment will be of more help than all the policemen in the world.

WRAP THEM WELL

It's not going to be a very merry Christmas for anyone concerned if the gifts which you're now so lovingly selecting for your service men overseas arrive smashed—or not at all. And that's what's likely to happen, according to the postmaster general, if they aren't wrapped strongly.

Package mail takes an awful banging between your house and its overseas destination. So keep the package of shoebox size, but make the box of wood, metal, or fiberboard, securely wrapped. And no shoeboxes!

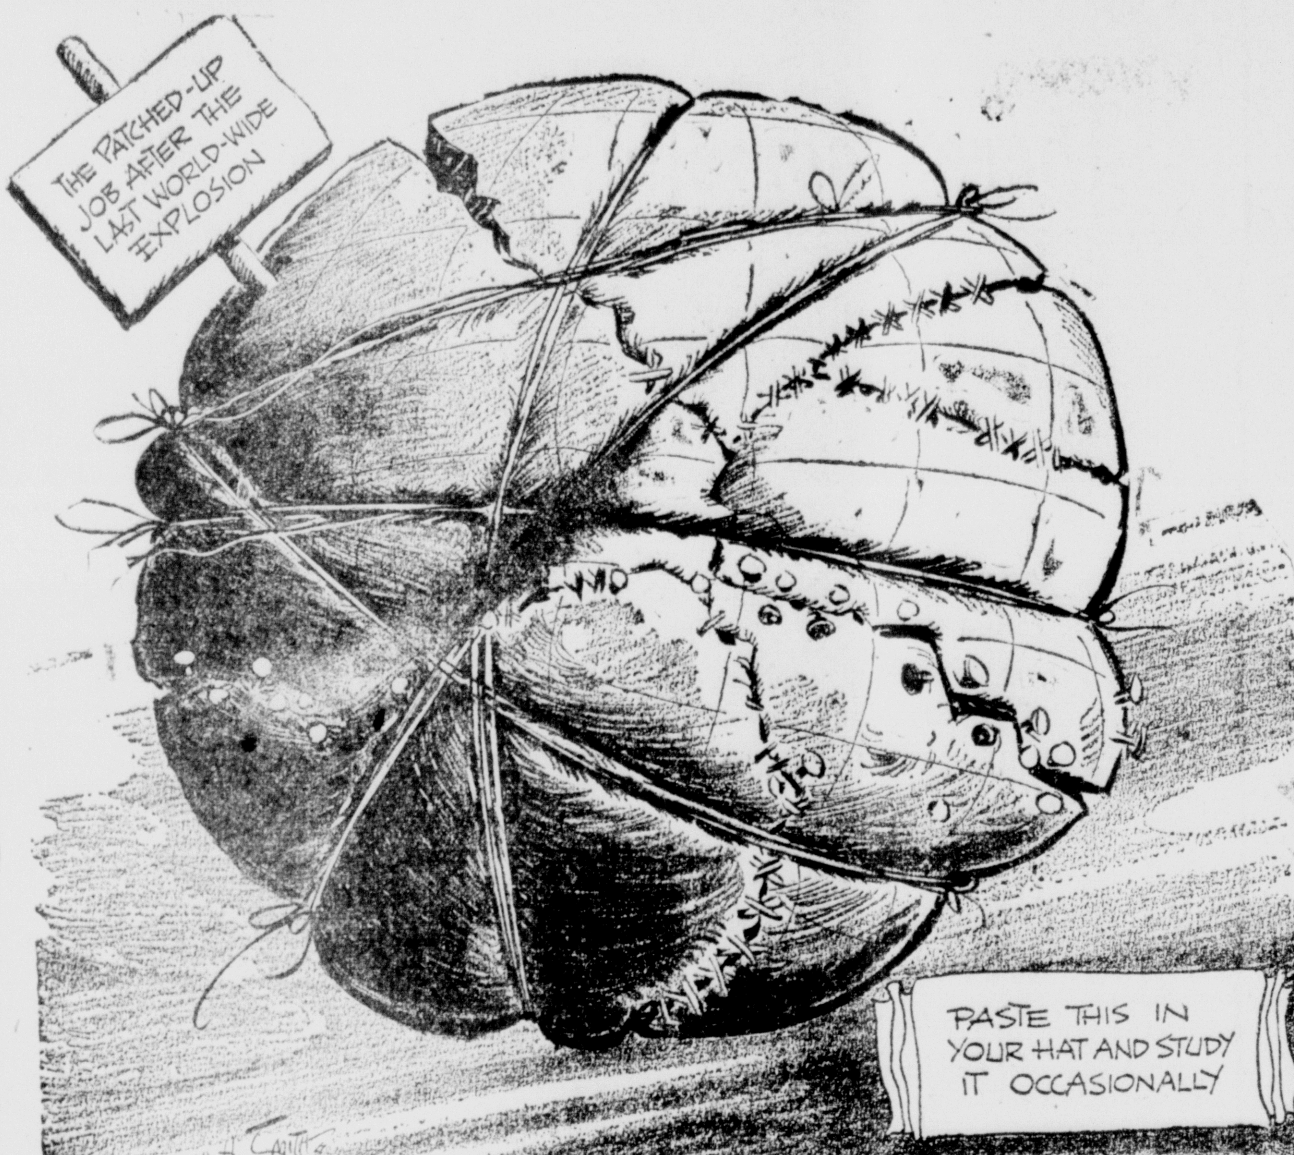

Hitler's defeat in northwestern France has reached a magnitude that has dragged the harried corporal face to face with the urgent problem of "where do I go next?"—a tough question for the dictator who again is shouting that "Germany will never surrender."

A Hint to the Postwar Planners

THE LAST DAYS OF NAZI PARIS

By TRUDI McCULLOUGH
A Features Writer

This is the Paris that awaits the Allied armies: A hungry city, grown hungrier since the invasion armies landed. Supplies from Britain and Normandy, the nation's larders, have ceased to flow into the capital.

A city where almost any food can be had on the black market, but housewives up from 5 a. m. to dusk for their rutabaga and 125 grams of bread.

Only Nazis and collaborationists can afford the black market, where a leg of lamb costs 1500-2000 francs, a pound of butter 1250 francs.

Meat Is Scarce For Patriots
For the patriot there is almost no meat. Milk is only to be had in hospitals, and eggs not at all.

Early in the occupation, some provident citizens kept a hen in their apartments to insure eggs. But there was no grain "and they were obliged to eat the hen."

These facts coming from Andre Labarthe, publisher of the French patriot magazine, Tricolor, are supplemented by an article in the current issue. From it a picture of Paris in the waning days of its occupation can be drawn.

At the cafes which remain open and busy, the French who have money to spend sit at one table.

The Germans at another, ignoring each other. There is no coffee after 3 p. m., no chocolate before 3 p. m. Curfew rings sometimes at 9 a. m., sometimes at midnight. Those who miss the last subway must stay at the nightspots until dawn.

At Maxim's, which has become a social headquarters for high ranking officers, prices are eight times what they were in 1940. Forcher, the famous Berlin caterer, who at the Paris World's Fair in 1937 was chef at the German building, is major domo at Maxim's.

Prices here dictate a Nazi clientele, but other cafes have been set aside for the Germans with orchestras playing German music. Mendelssohn is forbidden.

Nazis in Movies At Night
Large movie theaters like the Marignan, Le Paris, and Lutetia, also are reserved for the Germans. Other movie houses are heavily patronized by Partisans. They have proved to be a popular meeting place for the Underground. If Nazis attend they do so in civilian clothes. Nearly all "Germans" dress in civilian clothes at night," reports Tricolor, "it has been found safer."

American cigarettes sell for 400 francs a package. At night clubs cigarette girls manage to get 600 for them. The theaters are running to capacity with French plays. Sacha Guitry, now divorcing his fourth wife, is producing new plays as continuously as ever. The Germans have brought theatrical companies from Berlin for gala performances. When they recently performed a Moliere masterpiece, a French patriot yelled the bust of Moliere in the gallery.

The Germans have tried to hold fashionable race meetings, but since the successful bombing of the Longchamp track, the Autteuil race course is the only one in use.

Thus are the Germans spending their time as the sands of their occupation run out.

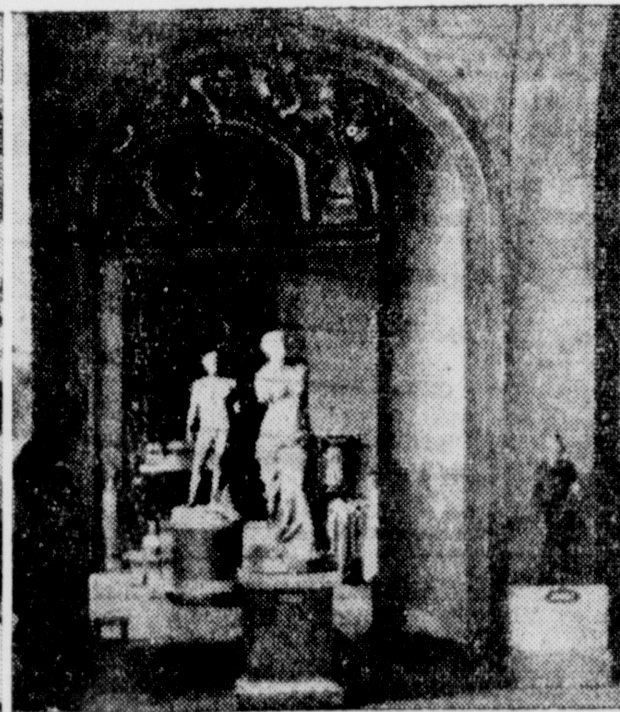

The people of France continue to walk long distances between subway stops as service has been curtailed for a long time. Because of the scarcity of newsprint they have few papers to read on their journeys. Billboard propaganda has diminished for the same reason.

"In the streets," according to an Associated Press report from Switzerland, "starving dogs and cats snarl and growl over scanty garbage."

The Paris, upon which Allied troops are advancing, is not the Paris of Hillegard's song or Elliott Paul's book. It is a grim determined place.

SPRINGTIME—Flowers still appeal to Parisians and at the Place de L'Opera the traditional sale of Lilies of the Valley goes on.

ART—Venus de Milo attracted throngs to the Louvre, despite war's grim pall. Paris is still one of the world's great art centers.

FASHION—Dress designers, fashion writers sit with pencils poised as a mannikin removes jacket to display a dinner dress.

APERTIF—Here's a sidewalk cafe, filled with anxious patriots, collaborationists and Nazis sipping coffee as time runs out.

RAILROADS' REVENUE EUP

Class I railroads in the U. S. in the first six months of 1944 performed approximately 5 1/2 per cent more revenue ton-miles of service than in the corresponding months of 1943 and 27 1/2 per cent more than in the same period of 1942.

ALCOHOL IN RUBBER

Alcohol consumed during 1943 and the first quarter of 1944 produced 600,000,000 pounds of Buna S synthetic rubber, about 72 per cent of Buna S world production.

THE "EAR WARDEN"

Improved ear protectors known as "ear waders" have been developed from a special neoprene compound for use by Navy gunners, aviators and submarine crews.

Hitler's "Miraculous" Escape Called Goebbels' Greatest Hoax

By CURT REISS
Written for NEA Service

If the bomb assault on Hitler had represented a large-scale conspiracy—if there had been real danger of German officers trying to get rid of the Fuehrer—Nazi propaganda would have done everything possible to hide such a truly alarming fact from the German population.

As a matter of fact, Hitler was not in his study at all when the bomb exploded.

In the complex events in Germany during the past few weeks, there are elements of both a real conspiracy which failed, and a faked conspiracy. It all started last June 28 with a meeting of high Nazi leaders, representatives of the German armament industry and food distribution leaders in Berlin.

At that time Germany's military situation looked dark. Cherbourg had fallen; the Russians were breaking through; the Nazis were steadily retreating in Italy. The meeting was called because of demands from the army for more weapons and ammunition, and from the Party for more food for the civilian population.

All those present were aware that it was impossible to increase armament production because of the shortage of manpower. Something new and drastic had to be done. Total mobilization was needed, though that meant that the standard of life in Germany would have to be lowered to a point where it consisted only of fighting or working for the war effort every waking minute, with just enough food and sleep to keep soldiers and workers alive.

Dr. Goebbels, master propagandist, knew that to justify the need for such great new sacrifices was an almost impossible task even for him. He needed to devise a shock treatment which would make the bomb-stunned German people accept the new sacrifices of total mobilization. He recalled two other shock treatments which had worked well in the past: the Reichstag Fire and the Blood Purge. Both disasters had united or reunited the people behind Hitler.

The new crisis, however, required something even stronger. The only thing that seemed to qualify was a miracle, and on July 26, after the shock treatment had been applied, Goebbels told the German people: "I can only say that, if the salvation of the Fuehrer from extreme danger to his life was no miracle, then there just are no miracles at all."

But did Goebbels create out of nothing the conspiracy against Hitler, complete with bomb assault? The answer to this is No! There was a conspiracy in expectation, or rather there were elements of a conspiracy.

Colonel Count Claus Schenk von Stauffenberg of Hitler's private staff was actually conspiring against the Fuehrer.

This man came from an old German Catholic noble family. He lost an eye and an arm in the Hitler regime. That was in 1935, when former leaders of Catholic workers' unions planned to do away with the Nazis and made contact with von Witzleben, who later retired in the decisive moment and betrayed his co-conspirators.

General Friedrich Olbricht, leader of the Army units stationed in Germany, was definitely not involved. He was loyal, but still the Nazis had to get rid of him. Olbricht was opposed to total mobilization and had told the Fuehrer so. That, then, was the situation as Goebbels set about to stage his miracle.

On July 20, Count von Stauffenberg was ordered by the Propaganda Ministry to fly from Berlin to Berchtesgaden with important documents to be delivered to General Jodl, Hitler's military adviser. Then he was to fly back to Berlin, go directly to General Olbricht's office in the Army Ministry in the Bendlerstrasse, and there await further orders from Goebbels.

Stauffenberg received a large briefcase shortly before 8 a. m., and immediately after took off for Berchtesgaden in a special courier plane. Landing in Berchtesgaden shortly after 10 a. m., he delivered the briefcase to General Jodl. We don't know what the General did with it, but it seems logical that he opened it, for otherwise what was the sense of sending the papers by special courier? It may therefore be assumed that the briefcase did not contain a bomb.

The time of the explosion was 11:30. The official account later said that Count Stauffenberg left after the explosion had taken place. The fact is, however, that the Count took off a few minutes after 11; that the plane made a landing at the Munich airport; that the Count stayed over for lunch with a friend and distant relative. He resumed his flight to Berlin shortly after 2 p. m.

It will be recalled that the official version of the assault on the Fuehrer said that the briefcase containing a bomb was placed near Hitler's feet; that the explosion wrecked his entire study, with tables with maps being blown out of the window. The chief of the Luftwaffe Staff, General Guenther Korten, presumably standing behind Hitler, was killed. General Jodl, presumably standing next to the Fuehrer, was seriously wounded. But Hitler was saved by a miracle. Providence had watched over the Fuehrer.

The men with whom Stauffenberg discussed ways and means to get rid of Hitler were Herr Karl Goerdeler and Field Marshal von Witzleben. Goerdeler (now safe in a neutral country) had been price commissioner under the republic as well as under Hitler.

Field Marshal von Witzleben was one of the more conservative officers. Once before he had taken part in a conspiracy against the

However, since it was not Providence, but Joseph Goebbels, who had been at work, some holes appear in the story of the bombing.

First, not even a man so trusted as Count von Stauffenberg could deposit a briefcase at Hitler's feet without everybody in the room noticing the strangeness of such an action.

Second, nobody in the room which, as photos prove, was thoroughly damaged, could have escaped without injury. Least of all the Fuehrer, who was right next to the exploding bomb.

There are strong indications that Hitler was not in his study at the time of the bombing, but was on his way from the Eagle's Nest to his home in Berchtesgaden. In any case, the meeting during which the bomb is said to have exploded was called for 11 o'clock but for noon, an hour before which Hitler, who goes to bed in the early morning hours, never attends to official business. Goebbels needed actual victims at the scene of the bombing. Otherwise the fact that Hitler was saved could not be called a miracle. Nazis being what they are, it may be assumed that the Propaganda Minister marked as "dependables" such men as Heinrich Berger, one of Hitler's confidential secretaries, and the Generals Korten and Heinz Brandt.

As soon as the bomb went off, SS officials rushed in and examined what was left of it. They proclaimed that the bomb was of English origin. But would German officers conspiring to assassinate the Fuehrer have to import a bomb from England?

Goebbels' miracle proved an effective shock treatment. For days Germany spoke of nothing else but the miracle of Hitler's escape. The generals were called "blue-blooded swine" by Minister Robert Ley, and generally blamed for the reverses on the military front.

All of this proved so exciting and sensational to the German-in-the-street that it never occurred to him there was no connection whatsoever between the so-called plot of the generals and the Total Mobilization which Goebbels decreed immediately following the dramatic events of July 20.

ANOTHER NEW PLASTIC

A new featherweight plastic, which expands to 30 times its normal size in 10 minutes, has been developed which promises to have many peace-time applications especially as an insulator.

Best was the chief base of operations in World War I for American warships conveying merchantmen and troop ships to France.

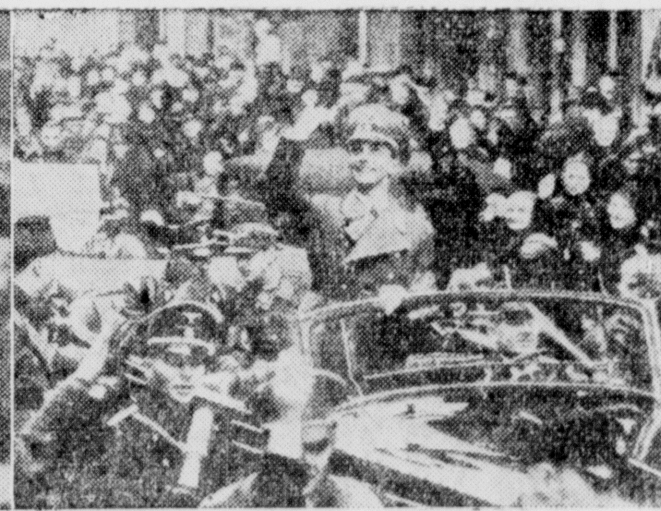

Nazi leaders met to discuss total mobilization. To make greater sacrifice, Goebbels needed a miracle.

So Hitler was "spared by Providence", though no one could escape unhurt from this shattered room.

Spectacular trials of the "blue-blooded swine" masked the real motive, total mobilization...

Goebbels' "miracle" provided the shock treatment. He wins acclaim now, but what of tomorrow?

BOOTS AND HER BUDDIES

Dr. Oscar A. Benson, of Chicago, vice president of the Augustana Synod, was one of the special speakers for the 90th anniversary celebration held over the weekend by the Lutheran church at Chandlers Valley.

Festivities begun at 3:30 p. m. Saturday, with Dr. Felix V. Hanson, of Jamestown, president of the New York Conference, delivering the sermon for a Swedish service.

After this, the group adjourned to the site of the memorial to be dedicated in 1946 to early Swedish settlers of the valley. Charles Eckman, president of the Chandlers Valley-Jamestown Historical Commission, spoke for a short prayer service.

There were reservations for more than 80 persons for the historical banquet held at six o'clock in the church basement, when executive members of the historical commission were present and Samuel Carlson, former mayor of Jamestown, was the speaker.

A historical service was held at 8:15, with Dr. Benson as the main speaker. There was special music and a dedicatory service for the Pioneer Chapel recently completed by the Young Women's Missionary Society. This chapel holds all the early historical relics which have been preserved through the years.

Dr. Benson spoke again on Sunday morning and the choir provided special musical selections. Preceding the church service, Sunday school was conducted by Elmore Carlson, of Sheffield, who plans to enter the theological seminary at Rock Island, Ill., this fall.

The First Lutheran church of Jamestown, daughter of the Hessel Valley parish, had charge of the anniversary service at 3 p. m. Sunday, Rev. Constant Johnson speaking and the church choir singing four anthems under the direction of Prof. Per Olsson. Greetings were extended at this time from the Augustana Synod, New York Conference and Warren District.

Following a buffet luncheon served in the church basement the 18th annual confirmation reunion was addressed by Rev. A. A. Fant, former pastor, and a memorial service was held for confirmations and members who have died in the past year. An honor service was also held for those of the church who are in the armed services. Special music was an added feature of this service, which brought to a close the two-day celebration.

The Hessel Valley Lutheran congregation is the oldest Swedish congregation in the New York and New England conferences, being first organized in 1854. History reveals many interesting facts of the trials, hardships and progress of these early Swedish settlers.

The first resident pastor was Rev. Jonas Swenson, who came from Sweden in 1856 and started organized efforts to build a church in the community. Here was born his son, C. A. Swenson, who later was the founder of Bethany College at Lindsborg, Kans.

In 1864, Rev. C. O. Hultgren accepted a call to the parish but resided in Jamestown, dividing his time between the two congregations. In 1869 Rev. H. O. Lindblad came as pastor and his records show that members were from far and near: Youngville, Garland, York Hill, North Warren, Warren, Irvineton, Farmington, Pine Grove, Quaker Hill, Kinzua, Sheffield, Ludlow, Wetmore, Ridgway, Derrick City, Bradford, Pardoe, Wilcox, Tidoute, Triumph, Irwin (below Pittsburgh), Harrisville in Potter county, Jersey Shore (near Williamsport) and Busti, N. Y.

Rev. C. A. Johnson, who came in 1879, was the last pastor in the old church building located where the present Lutheran cemetery is now laid out and served as the first in the present red brick structure in the Valley.

Pastors in the new church, beginning in 1886, were Rev. A. P. Lindstrom, from 1886; Rev. P. A. Carlson, 1891 to 1894; Rev. J. A. Forslund, 1895 to 1898; Rev. P. S. Miller, 1898 to 1907, and Rev. J. A. Carlstrom, who came in 1908 and remained until his death in 1932. He served the longest pastorate, nearly 24 years.

After Rev. Carlstrom's death, vice pastors served until the coming of Rev. A. A. Fant in 1933. He served five years and is the only living former pastor. He is now serving a church in Summit, N. J. The present pastor, Rev. Wallace B. Johnson, came in 1940. It is with gratitude and thankfulness to God that members of the congregation look back on these years of progress and forward to further accomplishment in the years to come.

Forgers Win From Colored Giants By Score of 5 to 3

Andy Natale's double in the third inning with the bases loaded paved the way for the Forgers' 26th win of the year. Diz Hines proved that the old stuff that fools the is still there. Though outmatched in the hitting department, the Negroes managed to get more men on bases but could not send them across the keyhole. The score was 5 to 3.

In the first inning, the Buffaloes started off with two doubles which scored the first run of the ball game. In the colored boys they outmatched with two singles by Morrison and Natale, a walk for Creola, and Rosequist got on base on an error, which altogether gained them two runs to almost put the game on ice.

The Giants didn't come through until the ninth, while in the meantime, the NFO men were striving for more tallies. In the third, Massa and Morrison singled and Rosequist walked to load the bases. Up came Slugger Natale to drive a hard double between the left and center fielders to bring in the scores which clinched the ball game.

In the first half of the ninth, Abrams, who came in for the left fielder in the fourth to hurl, lambasted a triple into center field and was driven in by McQueen's single which made the final count 5-2.

(By Joe Gardner)

When you are approached by a member of the Kiwanis club and asked to buy a tag for the old timers baseball game at the hospital Aug. 26th just keep in mind the fact that the entire proceeds of the tag sale, both on the streets, during the week, prior to the game and at the game itself will go to help some crippled or underprivileged youngster of Warren County.

Doctor Jack Utley is in charge of the tag sale and reports very encouraging results even at this early date. Your contribution can be fifty cents or more as your conscience dictates. Just keep in mind that for such a lowly figure you will see "Hugh" Bedient, Art Johnson, Ray Caldwell, "Pike" Peterson, Swat Erickson and a host of other old timers go out there and caper around like youngsters at a corn roast. You will see a ball game replete with thrills from the time "play ball" is called until they carry out the last stretcher and wheel away the last chair. The Jamestown old timers are sore at Warren because they claim Warren put into their lineup some young players at the finish of the game and thus stacked the lineup, taking advantage of old age—Swanson did sneak in a rabbit punch when they slipped "Rabbit" Swanson into the lineup in the sixth inning but then "Red" is just a few steps away from his fiftieth birthday so let them howl. Now that the last end of the baseball season approaches it must be noted with satisfaction that in spite of Hitler and Tojo's successor our National sport has more than held its own.

"Darkhorse" From Evansville Bowls Over Nelson in P. G. A.

By RUSS NEWLAND

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 21—(T)—He wasn't given much of a chance when the tournament opened, in fact was dismissed with the classification of a "coner," but Bob Hamilton carried the title of 1944 National P. G. A. golf champion on his name today.

The "darkhorse" from Evansville, Ind., 28 years old and playing in this tournament for the first time, defeated Byron Nelson, Toledo, O., 1 up over 36 holes yesterday. It was the No. 1 upset of the tournament, in fact the biggest reversal in 26 championships.

Only the victory of Tom Creavy over Denny Shuele in 1931 approached Hamilton's achievement. He beat the country's best golfer when he beat Nelson the final green to receive the acclamation of more than 7,000 fans. And in defeat, Nelson was still the best golfer of the field, when considered on a medal play basis. The man from Ohio played 196 holes in thirty shots under par. Only on the first day, when he carded two 70 rounds did he fail to complete eighteen holes in the 60s.

Yet he won only second money of $1500. Hamilton, who played 205 holes during the seven days in 12 under par figures, had it over his rival on the last day. He posted a 70, then a 69, and his one-hole margin for the tense match play battle paid off richly, $3500 worth.

Incidentally, Hamilton defeated the two outstanding golfers of the country. He beat Harold McSpaden, Philadelphia, leading money winner of the year, 2 and 1 in the quarter finals.

The two team league of Oil City and Franklin lasted through 1917, 1918 and part of 1919. When this league broke up "Rabbit" was out of a baseball job just long enough to sign for a telegram from "Rube" Haggerty at Reynoldsville, Pa., to finish the season out with him.

In the spring of 1920 "Red" was signed by Brookville where he spent the 1920 and 1921 seasons.

It was while playing for Brookville that he had the distinction of playing in a game that was started twice because the visiting team got too many runs to begin with. The story goes that Brookville was playing at Rosseter, Pa., a rough and ready town where they took their baseball seriously and where it was high treason to defeat the home club. The game started very peaceful like and continued so until the third inning when a Brookville player hit one close to the line with the bases loaded. The local umpire being kind of an honest sort of a fellow called the ball fair before he thought of the consequences. This put the visiting team three runs to the good and brought the wrath of the crowd around the game of the umpire. Before the crowd could be dispersed, the umpire had disappeared.

Once again quiet reigned and the Rosseter manager quite emphatically suggested that the game be started over again with a player from each team as the umpires. "Pike" Peterson another local boy who had some of his experience gotten in Brookville was warmed up. "Pike" was at his best and even without the aid of his now famous "blooper ball" he set him down. The history books show that this game was just another win for Brookville, but nothing is ever said about the three runs that went out the gate with the umpire.

Arriving in Warren on Friday, the St. Louis Cardinals will look about to spot any baseball talent which could be of use to their club. Boys from all sections of northwestern Pennsylvania and southwestern New York are expected to be on hand for a crack at big league stuff.

Well-known scouts . . . Joe McDermott, Walter Shannon, and Tony Kaufmann, will be on hand to show the boys, through a carefully developed program, every chance to show their arm, fielding, hitting, and speed. These qualities will show them whether or not the boys have a baseball future.

All expenses must be assumed by the player. All equipment needed will be glove, shoes, and a uniform.

The tryouts will begin promptly at 10:00 a. m., Friday at the State Hospital diamond and will last until 2:00 p. m. These same hours will be observed on Saturday.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 21—(T)—Bradford beats Erie, 12-8 in a regularly scheduled game yesterday, but lost to the Sailors, 16-13 in a contest continued from Saturday night.

On Saturday, the 3 Bors had the bases loaded with only one out when police stopped the game under the Bradford curfew law. Batavia climbed into second place by defeating the Wellsville Yankees, 4-2.

The Olean Oilers and the Jamestown Falcons split a doubleheader.

Change Made By Forge For Sunday Game

The National Forge regrets having to cancel August 27th game with the Oakmont Club. The NFO management was notified that the Oakmont team will play at Forbes Field Sunday to determine which club will represent the Pittsburgh district in the National Tournament in Youngstown, Ohio. However, the Forge management hopes to schedule this club for a game in the first part of September.

Replacing Oakmont in next Sunday's encounter will be the Erie General Electric team which is holding down top berth in the Erie Glenwood League. The GE's have twice defeated the Erie Brabenders, 7-2, and 8-3, proving that this club will keep the Forgers on their toes every minute of the game, since the ironmen had tough games with the Brabenders.

Thursday evening at 6:00 o'clock the Forge will come to grips with the Ashville, N. Y., club. This team is now leading the County League in which Ashville is situated. They are rated one of the best clubs in that part of the state and are expected to give the Forgers stiff opposition.

Methodists Trounce St. Joes 11 to 2

The Grace Methodists banged out 12 hits at Beatty Field Friday night to trounce St. Joes, first half champs, by a score of 11-2. Erv. Rader, hurling for the Grace, gave up only five hits as he limited the Catholic boys to two runs. St. Joes' hurler was forced to leave the ball game in the third inning because of a sore finger. Greto took over the pitching duties as he was replaced by Santo LeTrent, former mushball player here in Warren now in the army.

In the first inning the Grace-men collected four singles, two walks, a fielder's choice, and a base on an error, all totaled giving the Methodists seven tallies to set the game on ice. In the fifth, LeTrent singled, and two Grace errors scored him to make the fifth Catholic marker. Again in the sixth St. Joes managed to cross the plate with another as Rico Bonavito singled and was driven in with a beautiful double off the stick of Timmy Juliano, to make the count 7-2.

Tonight at 6:15 the Baptists will face the Grace Methodists at Beatty Field. The box score:

American fighter bombers in daylight and evening attacks knocked out 20 others. A simultaneous night-long attack on the belt west of the Seine, through which the beaten Nazis are streaming from the Falaise trap, knocked out 135 vehicles and 16 tanks to bring the day's total for both the RAF and the U. S. army air force to more than 350 vehicles and nearly 100 tanks.

The original total barge force upon which the Germans are depending for their miniature Dunkerque over the bridgeless river was estimated at $1,200 to 1,500. The Germans also have used high pontoon bridges, which swing back against the shrub-shrouded river bank in the daytime, but these are very susceptible to bombing.

The attacks are taking place a scant 25 miles down the Seine from the American bridgehead. In addition, the U. S. Ninth Air Force fighter bombers and the Eighth Fighter command reported that the ten-day score up to Saturday night of German transport destroyed or damaged included 979 locomotives, 8,000 railroad cars, 1,253 road vehicles and 281 armored vehicles.

FORMER TITUSVILLE WOMAN DENIES CRIME

Salinas, Calif., Aug. 21—(P)—A former Titusville, Pa., woman today awaited a ruling on her release on bail in connection with charged that she killed a 19-year-old farmhand whose body was found beside a road July 15 with a bullet hole in the head.

Superior Judge H. G. Jorgensen set tomorrow as the date for his ruling after Mrs. Frances Andrews, 37, now of Carmel Valley, Calif., pleaded innocent to killing Jay Lovett, the farmhand, at a hearing Friday.

A motion by Defense Attorney Leo Friedman to quash the grand jury indictment against the woman was denied by Judge Jorgensen who then set Sept. 19 as the date for the murder trial.

Recreation Hut For Soldiers Planned at Bull Hill Camp

Prisoners of war and U. S. soldiers at the Bull Hill Camp are busy getting the camp and equipment in shape for the arrival of the main group of war prisoners. The camp is in charge of Captain Carl E. Lee and Lieut. W. J. Westerlage and they are getting everything in ship shape. Most of the buildings at the camp are in good shape having been well looked after during the time they were unused.

Adjutant Bradenberg, of the local Salvation Army had calls on Saturday night from a group of the troops that are being used by guards and yesterday he visited the camp. He offered his best efforts to aid the men in doing anything possible and Captain Long suggested that a recreation room for the soldiers on guard would be a good thing.

Adj. Bradenberg has taken the matter up with the Warren Citizens Committee and it is expected that a meeting will be held soon at which the project will be discussed. Lieut. Westerlage feels that some means of recreation for the men is most important. A building formerly used by the CCC camp boys has been set aside as a recreation center for the camp. The structure has a raised rostrum at one end on which a piano, etc., were placed when the CCC camp was operated.

Lieut. Westerlage has given to Adj. Bradenberg a list of articles which are badly needed to equip the recreation hall. The needs as outlined are: barber tools, chairs, a davenport, lamps, tables for writing and games, ping pong tables, piano, rug, pool table and paint and brushes. Other things than can be included in the line of recreation would also be appreciated.

Adj. Bradenberg is anxious that the recreation center be opened as quickly as possible and anyone having any of the articles needed can contact him at Salvation Army, Phone 655 and he will call for the things and keep them at the Army building until a truck can be sent from the camp to get them. Paint and brushes are used immediately by the soldiers as they wish to clean up and paint the interior of the building which has been set aside for their use.

The Citizens Committee is planning on giving all aid to the project as the U. S. Soldiers who will be stationed at the camp will have long hours when a game and reading room would be most highly appreciated. Warren people have always been most prompt in their response to appeals of the kind and this will be no exception.

SUGAR GROVE

Sugar Grove, Aug. 19.—The Hill and Dale Garden Club will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Lewis Barlow, at her home Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Loomis have received word that their son Harold located in Italy has received the Purple Heart but was not seriously injured. Another son, Alfred, stationed at Waycross, Ala. is spending a fifteen day furlough with his parents in Sugar Grove.

Corporal Forrest Judge is spending a furlough with his mother Mrs. Anna Millman in Sugar Grove. This is his first leave since he entered the Air Corps in December, 1942. He has received training as a radio man in several fields, coming home from Westover Field, in Mass. and will report to Mitchell Field after completing his furlough.

An early legend on the discovery of fire-making says the buffalo gave fire to man. The animals racing across the plains lighted the darkness with sparks from their hooves. It was said, and set the brush ablaze.

Milkweed Pods to Be Picked By School Pupils

When H. L. Blair, county superintendent of schools issues his first fall bulletin on September 1, all teachers in the county will have special attention called to announcement that Pennsylvania school children have been asked to assist with the collection of milkweed pods "seriously needed in the production of life preserver jackets and aviators' suits because of its buoyancy".

All farmers, owners of woodlots, township road and state highway workers have been urged to refrain from cutting milkweed along the highways, allowing the pods to mature so the floss may be gathered.

It is stated that this floss is used as a substitute for kapok, now controlled by the Japanese, and that millions of pounds must be collected in the United States in the next two months.

In addition to school children, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and other interested organizations are asked to assist in carrying out this project.

Rural sections of Warren county have many milkweed patches and the growth is said to be particularly good this season. Pods must be picked at just the proper time, that is, when the seeds start to turn brown and a few of the pods start to open.

The pods are then hung up to dry in open mesh bags like onion sacks and are dried for several weeks.

The best season in Warren county seems to be between September 1 and 15 and it is expected the mesh bags will be here for distribution to teachers and other county leaders by that time.

Fall Weather In This Area

Following one of the warmest spells of weather that this section has undergone in a long time some real fall weather seems to have arrived. The mercury dropped in the thermometers down into the low fifties and there was a tang in the air that felt much like October.

And to cap the climax a report comes from Endeavor this morning that on Saturday night the following there were killed by a frost that affected gardens and flower beds. The frost is said to have been quite severe.

In this immediate vicinity no frost was reported but the air was chill and in many homes fires were lighted last evening to take the chill from out of the air.

LIQUID GOLD

I am oil.
I am the rich, black blood of earth,
Surging through the soil for ages beyond measure.

I waited to be found.
I waited while the centuries slipped by
And Man still stumbled slowly overhead.

I was ready.
I held within me worlds of endless power
Undiscovered. Strength unknown...unwanted...
Till that historic day in Titusville,
Till that wondrous day in '59
When Man first opened earth
And worked to set me free.

Liquid Gold, they called me—
And as I gushed in roaring torrents upward,
Men fought and died to have me...
To channel me, enslave me to their ends.

But there were other men who saw in me
A greater promise...for all Mankind

Honoring the occasion of the 85th Anniversary of the drilling of the first oil well by Colonel Edwin L. Drake at Titusville, Pa., this tribute is published by Tide Water Associated Oil Company, one of the great pioneers of petroleum, and the first company to lay a pipe line from the oil fields of Pennsylvania to the coast.

Tide Water Associated • World's Largest Refiner of Pennsylvania Oils
New York • Tulsa • San Francisco

On August 27, 1859, the first drilled oil well in the world was brought in.

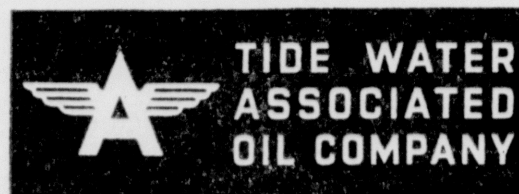

Men who glimpsed my power
And had the vision of the future in their dreams.

Yes, I have served Man well
These five and eighty years...
I have sent his motors racing over roads,
Churned his ships through seas,
Pushed his straining tractors across fields,
And lifted him above the earth
To soar unchallenged through the skies

Today, my precious might is harnessed for a greater cause.

Today the tanks of war, the trucks, the planes,
The very implements of Victory
Move forward on my strength.

Today, still greater reservoirs of power
Lie within me...waiting...ready.
And when the days of Peace return again,
I shall bring to Man
The rich, full promise of a better life...
I shall again unfold a vast new world to him.
I am oil...I am Liquid Gold!

Chapter 12
UNCLE FRANK'S gray head was shaking. "I'll have to go back. There's no reason though why I can't go."

Lucky looked at him. She swallowed once, fighting for control. "We've—lots of room."

Thad hesitated. "It'd be swell. Of course. But—" He stopped, frowning. He looked at Uncle Frank. "There's—that other thing."

"Oh, yes, that."

Lucky was listening intently. Neither Thad nor her uncle seemed quite at ease. Especially Thad. What is it? Something about it? She winced with pain. "Cappy broke in hospitably. 'Certainly would suit us to have you.'"

But still Thad demurred. He didn't look at them, but at the grating in the cockpit floor. "Uncle Frank said, 'Go on! You need a vacation. You can check on that, and send me a wire. Have a good time, boy.' He turned to Lucky. 'What's your first port of call?'"

"Bimini. We're crossing tonight. By moonlight. We won't stay there long unless Ben wants to. Then on to Nassau."

Thad grinned boyishly. "Sounds like those alluring travel folders! But, you'd better not count on me."

Cappy persisted. "We don't sail till five o'clock. Just come if you can make it."

Thad looked at Lucky. Maybe he'd guessed his coming would disturb her. He mustn't! "Yes, leave it open," she urged. "If you'll telephone, we could even wait a while on you..."

After they'd gone, she sat in the cockpit, spent with the effort of being with him without letting him see how she felt. If minutes had been like that, could she stand days of it?

THAT afternoon was a pendulum of changing moods for Lucky. One moment she swung toward fear that Thad would come. It won't do any good. It'll just be harder—afterward. Yet the next she swung back to the numb hope that he would. Her eyes kept wandering up to the dock to the dockmaster's small wooden office, which housed the telephone. Or between the masts of the green ketch—toward the entrance. In either direction had she been rewarded when she left for the station to meet the Alans. She had dressed carefully in a becoming lavender print, knowing she'd see in May's first quiet glance whether those three weeks of effort had been worth-while. And Thad might be on board when she got back. Not that it would mean anything, even if he noticed.

Don't be a little fool again, Lucky.

May, her stocky figure smart in navy blue, was hardly off the train before she exclaimed. "Lucky! You look marvelous! You'd make headlines! Island Gal Goes Bar Harbor!"

Ben gave her his quick nervous smile, his dark eyes intent. "Never realized it. Your eyes are lilac. Ought to wear lavender all the time."

Lucky was comforted, but her thoughts were concentrating now on hurrying. It was almost four. Would Thad be on board when they got back?

THERE was no sign of him on deck and Cappy came up from below alone. Almost before she'd introduced the new arrivals, she asked, very casually, "Any news—while I was gone?"

Cappy had a faint twinkle in his eyes, but he didn't point out she'd been gone exactly thirty-seven minutes. Instead he scratched his head reflectively. "Mollie B left out for the Keys a few minutes ago."

"How nice. They've been wanting to get away." She tried without success to keep from looking along the dock toward the entrance. It was bare of people.

At quarter of five she went to the main cabin where May, already changed to tailored blue slacks, was unpacking. "Anything you want to get uptown before we sail? No shopping in Bimini much, you know."

May said, no, she had everything.

Lucky went aft to the galley, just to be sure. Cappy'd overlooked nothing. He hadn't. She couldn't even think up a plausible lie.

The ship's clock struck a melodious ding-ding.

Lucky listened, head bent. Her eyes dimmed with disappointment. Then she brought her chin up sharply. She called through the hatch. "Five o'clock, Cappy! I'll be up to help you cast off as soon as I change."

As a gesture toward finality, she put on her oldest, most faded dungarees. She heard the auxiliary kick over and take up its steady drumming in the engine compartment beyond her cabin. She went out and up the steps. Halfway up she stopped.
